

150 People Feared Drowned

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — An ocean-going ferry with 614 aboard ran aground at Wellington harbor's mouth today and capsized in one of the fiercest storms in New Zealand's history. Officials feared 150 drowned.

With winds of up to 123 miles an hour lashing the seas into high waves, the 8,944-ton ferry Wahine keeled over and dumped passengers and crew into the icy water.

A rescue armada of small boats dared the high waves and plucked many survivors from the water. Others escaped in lifeboats. Searchers reported 42 bodies had been picked up, either in the water or along three miles of shore stretching from the harbor entrance.

Wellington hospitals were packed with survivors suffering from injuries or exposure. Other survivors were in private homes.

As night fell, and searchlights swept the dark seas, officials said more than 100 passengers and crew were unaccounted for. Most survivors said that there was no panic when the Wahine hit the shoal or even when the ferry began to keel over.

Hilda Quinn said, however, there was chaos in the lounge, where many women and children were waiting.

"Women were running around calling for their children," she continued. "This is when they got separated."

"It was terrible. The ship was tilting right over. To get to the boats we just sat down and slid to the rail, where men helped us in the boats. They were lifting little kiddies over the side and dropping them into a boat. My sister and I grabbed a baby each."

Mrs. Quinn said she saw a baby, about 12 months old, floating in the water on its back. The baby was rescued.

The Wahine lay on its side half out of water about a mile from shore.

The total aboard included the crew of about 130.

The Wahine, owned by the Union Steamship Co., hit a rocky shoal about 7 a.m. just inside Wellington Harbor as she neared the end of her daily 11-hour run up the east coast of New Zealand's South Island from Christchurch to Wellington, at the southern tip of North Island.

While gales of up to 123 miles an hour made the sea boil around her, the Wahine freed herself from the shoal and anchored about a mile offshore with a hole in her hull. A tug got a line aboard but it snapped.

Operation Largest Of the War

SAIGON (AP) — More than 100,000 troops of five nations fanned out today over the Saigon area and 11 provinces around the capital in the biggest allied offensive of the war. Only light, scattered action was reported, and a general lull in the ground fighting in Vietnam continued for the second day.

The U.S. Command announced that the big new sweep around the capital, Operation Toan Thang, or Complete Victory, began Monday. Its objective is the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops who got away from the 50,000 American and South Vietnamese troops in Operation Quyet Thang, or Resolved to Win.

U.S. headquarters announced Tuesday that Quyet Thang, a sweep of five provinces around Saigon, had ended with 2,658 enemy killed. But when it began early in March, a force of 13,000 Viet Cong and units of two North Vietnamese regiments were reported maneuvering around the capital, possibly for a renewal of the Tet offensive against the city.

U.S. spokesmen explained that Quyet Thang and all other allied operations in the 3rd Corps area terminated Sunday, and all allied forces which had been participating in them began Toan Thang on Monday.

Fighting Toward Shore

A lifeboat, filled with survivors from the capsized ferryboat "Wahine," is pulled ashore through a heavy surf near Wellington, New Zealand, Wednesday. The ferry, one of the world's largest, sank in 125-mile-an-hour typhoon winds. Authorities feared more than 100 persons drowned in the disaster. (UPI)

Prospects For Peace Uncertain

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — Prospects for peace in Vietnam appeared cloudy as ever as President Johnson wrapped up marathon war-and-peace strategy talks at the Camp David mountain retreat.

Although Johnson announced Tuesday he had dispatched a second formal message to Hanoi, he said nothing and merely shook his head negatively when asked at nightfall if there had been any subsequent developments.

No administration comment was immediately available on word reaching the United States early today that North Vietnam is insisting that any peace talks be held in Phnom Penh, Cambodia. The U.S. government has been strongly opposed to that site since it no longer has diplomatic relations with Cambodia, a circumstance that could cause communications and logistics problems.

The chief executive, spending a second night at Camp David, planned a morning return by helicopter to the White House today to greet Chancellor Josef Klaus of Austria.

While millions of Americans watched and listened Tuesday to seven hours of funeral observances for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. on television and radio, the President was closeted at his Marine-guarded hideaway with top diplomatic and military advisers.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was his representative at the King rites.

Johnson's last official guest at Camp David was the U.S. Pacific commander, Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, who flew in by helicopter for an hour's visit Tuesday night. Sharp is retiring in July.

Latest activity on the Vietnam peace front began Monday when Johnson announced receipt of a formal message from Hanoi, replying to his own earlier communication to the North Vietnamese government.

In disclosing Tuesday that he had dispatched yet another message to North Vietnam, Johnson said the two adversaries in the Vietnam war were "discussing a number of alternative locations" for preliminary talks "which could be convenient to both sides."

Johnson's visitors during the busy Camp David stay included, in addition to Sharp, Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker in from Saigon, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, Chairman Earle G. Wheeler of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Ambassador-at-large W. Averell Harriman, designated as Johnson's personal representative if peace talks develop.

Allocation Of Money To Groups

Allocations to United Fund agencies, based on the 1967 fund drive, are as follows:

Red Cross, $15,199.36; Boy Scouts, $10,952.48; Salvation Army, $10,000; Cerebral Palsy, $7,599.68; Girl Scouts, $5,185.66; Minneola Nursery, $4,343.44; Melita Nursery, $3,982.24; Boys Club, $3,486.91; Mercy Hospital, $2,682.24; Pettis County Child Welfare, $1,251.71; Pettis County 4-H Clubs, $894.08; USO, $491.74; Missouri Association of Social Welfare, $200; and Travelers Aid, $44.70.

United fund administration will get $9,651.60, and an unpaid pledge reserve of $4,474.52 will be maintained, making a grand total of $80,440.36 in allocations.

The total allocation represents money subscribed to the 1967 fund drive, of which $59,174.48 has been paid to date. The 1967 goal was $99,636.

Jim Edwards was elected president of the United Fund board for 1968 at the annual awards banquet held at Smith-Cotton cafeteria Tuesday night. Other officers elected were Harry Browder and Mrs. Harold Dean, executive vice-presidents; Neil Chapman, treasurer; Mrs. W. C. Askew, executive director; Mrs. Walter Loveland, executive secretary; Harry W. Walch, campaign chairman; and Jim Grieshaber, vice-president of the budgeting committee.

Directors elected were Gene Gregory, William Hiatt, Dr. C. W. Monsees, Hank Monsees, Aaron Haller, Oscar Lawson, Bill Burkholder, Mrs. Cline Cain, K. U. Love and Emmett Fairfax.

"Such an affair as this could not be held in Russia," Paul Doll, Jefferson City, executive director of Missouri Engineers, speaker of the evening, told the large group attending the banquet.

Doll, who was introduced by William Hiatt, banquet chairman, talked on Russia, where he visited with a team of 22 Americans, stressing that his were personal observations.

Showing films he said they were told not to take pictures, then on a bus they were suddenly told to take a picture and he did of the beautiful highway pointing out the engineering and construction of the road.

"It's the system," he said, "the people are real fine." Among the differences he noted in Russia was the absence of street signs, sign boards and neon signs. Suddenly the sign

Kansas City Hit By Continued Disorder

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Tear gas and unruly students forced closing today of four predominantly Negro schools on Kansas City's East Side, and police said they were bracing for another march on police headquarters.

Young Negroes were reported by police to be massing for a demonstration apparently similar to one Tuesday which began as a memorial to Dr. Martin Luther King but ended in a day and night of violence.

School officials said "violently uncontrollable" students forced closing of Central senior and junior high schools at Indiana Avenue and Linwood Boulevard and also Manual High School at 1215 East Truman Road on the edge of the downtown area. The three schools have a combined enrollment of nearly 6,000.

Lincoln High School closed earlier after police threw tear gas into the building.

Police and Missouri National Guardsmen deployed on the near East Side in an attempt to retain control as groups of Negro youths drifted about the area creating minor disturbances.

Although the 1,300 Lincoln students were dismissed, Board of Education officials said attendance at most other schools was close to normal.

Lt. Col. Eric A. Durham of the Guard said some youths had taunted troops and police at Lincoln, and police fired tear gas after one officer was wounded slightly by a rock.

It was at Lincoln where demonstrations started Tuesday morning to honor the memory of Dr. Martin Luther King. Before dawn today one Negro had been killed, at least 35 persons injured and more than 175 arrested after a series of shootings, fires and looting.

Nearly 4,000 police, state highway patrolmen and Guardsmen from two states were thrown into an effort to enforce a curfew Tuesday night, but it was after midnight before violence lessened.

Lt. Col. Richard F. Shelley of the National Guard said no Guardsmen had reported firing any shots since going on duty.

Herbert Jones Appointed To Draft Board

Herbert D. Jones, 204 East Cooper, has been appointed by President Johnson to serve as a member of Selective Service Board No. 84 of Pettis County.

Jones is employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. He will fill the position which was vacated by John M. Sneed, Sr., who resigned recently after serving on the board for six years.

With this appointment, the five-man Selective Service Board of Pettis County is now complete with Dr. T. J. Hopkins, chairman; William J. Jarrett, secretary; and J. Ed Mitchell and John Pelham the other members.

The board meets at the Selective Service offices on the second floor of the Sedalia Post Office the first Wednesday of each month for interviewing, classifying and reclassifying registrants.

NFO Shoots Hogs On Fortuna Farm

The Missouri branch of the National Farmers Organization began the slaughter of some 1,000 hogs on a hilltop about four miles northwest of Fortuna about 11:14 a.m. today.

The slaughter was in protest against low farm prices for their cattle and hogs.

As the proceedings began, Don Hill, Lebanon, Missouri NFO president, told some 300 people present:

"We are all farmers. I believe you all feel as bad as I do about this, but we have to speak to the meat packers in a language they understand. We have found no alternative but to go ahead and show them we would rather go ahead with this than accept the low prices they offer."

Hill explained that earlier in the week he had sent telegrams to the processors concerned, outlining the NFO holding action, and notifying them that if enough of the packers did not sign contracts for at least 23 cents per pound for hogs and 32 cents for choice cattle, the hog killing would take place. He also notified President Johnson and Vice President Humphrey of the action.

"We heard from one packer," Hill said, "the St. Louis Independent Packing Co., a Swift & Co.-owned firm, and they replied they would bid on the hogs at market price." This we could not accept, Hill added.

The killing was scheduled to begin at 10 a.m., but Hill and Duane Wind, Hannibal, an NFO official in charge of arrangements for the action, waited until the last word on contract signing was received.

The officials said they had planned to donate the animals to charitable organizations if enough packers signed the required contracts before the killing.

"This is a Missouri NFO action," Hill said, "but we have some animals from Kansas, sent by owners there who are sympathetic to the nationwide NFO action."

Elmer Bell, an NFO national director was present.

The killing occurred on a farm owned by Robert Fulton, who used his own equipment to dig most of the 10-foot-deep trench.

The animals, from almost all Missouri counties, were shot by NFO members using 30.06-caliber rifles, then 'stuck' by other NFO members. After the animals were killed they were buried under at least four feet of dirt. It was expected the action would not be completed until late in the afternoon.

Search Area For Missing LaMonte Man

Brown was discovered in Wellington, Mo., Wednesday morning, according to the Sheriff's Department Pettis County.

Charles H. Brown, 79, Rural Route, LaMonte, was reported missing at 9 p.m. Tuesday night, according to Sheriff Emmett Fairfax. Brown, whose home is on the Main Street road east of State Route 127, left home about 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Fairfax reported Brown was last seen in Green Ridge about 11:30 a.m. Tuesday while eating in a restaurant. It was reported that he was going to look for someone with a bulldozer to do some work on his farm.

Sheriff Fairfax and his deputies and Trooper Cahries Pieper of the State Patrol, are searching an area between State Route 52 and U.S. Highway 50 and from Sedalia west past State Route 127.

Brown was driving a green 1951 Ford pickup truck with his name in yellow paint.

Board of Education Budget is Approved

The Sedalia Board of Education Tuesday approved a budget of $2,620,503.36 for fiscal year 1968-69. According to T. J. Norris, superintendent of schools, the budget is approximately $65,000 over last year's budget.

The board also approved the annexation of the Georgetown and Bothwell school districts to Sedalia District No. 200. Both the Georgetown and Bothwell districts passed annexation measures in the April 2 general election.

In other actions, the board voted to give drivers education and typing courses during summer school on a tuition basis. The summer school will also offer English and mathematics courses without charge to eighth, ninth, tenth, and 11th graders.

The board approved the Mid-Missouri Community Action Corp. Head Start program to be held in Hubbard School. The program is designed to give preschool children help in adjusting to school routine and curriculum.

In routine business the board renewed the contracts of 195 teachers for the coming year and approved contracts for eight new teachers for the district; accepted the resignations of nine teachers, Mrs. Helen Hanigan; Mrs. Sally Keating; Mrs. Christine Killion; Paul Killion, Timothy Purcell, Miss Edith Couey, Letha Shaw, Anna Margaret Wingfield and Sandra Burton; approved transferring the licensed practical nurses program from the high school to the Junior College District.

The board also awarded a contract for new musical instruments to Shaw Music Co., with a low bid of $1,063.79. Shaw was the lowest bidder of four submitting bids.

The board also authorized spending $425 for special radios for Civil Defense warnings. The new radios will give each school in the district one radio.

Rate Cut Possible, MPS Says

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Public Service Commission said today an agreement with Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. will result in telephone rate reductions for some Bell customers but for many it will only be clear notice how much gross receipts tax their cities are levying against utilities.

Bell's rate reduction will total almost $8 million statewide but will result in a loss of company revenue of only $1,125,000. Instead of absorbing the gross receipts levy the company will make the tax a separate item on monthly bills.

So for many customers the cost of service may be the same, with the surcharge only serving as a clear indication of the amount of utility tax levied by their communities.

boards they had talked against in America became something they loved dearly, for it was freedom, Doll explained.

There was only wonderful music on TV and radio, no commercials, and commercials to them became important, for they were America. There were no dogs or cats, and when they asked about them they were told by the Russians that a huge amount of money was wasted in buying food for dogs and cats.

The street in front of the hotel was very clean, but old ladies were cleaning up the cigar and cigarette butts the Americans had thrown down. They love to serve their country, the Americans were told.

The woman guide did not believe in going to church for there is "nothing above," she said. Yet, Doll wondered when she later sent him a Christmas card. Visiting the tomb of Lenin, she commented there was nothing higher. There were Russians in lines for miles to go in the tomb — they are required to do this and their names are checked off. The farm land had grown up in weeds because the farmers don't own the farm and don't care, Doll remarked.

He told of the freedom the Russian people and many others don't have, and urged Americans to see to it that such organizations as the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts and the Boys' Club continue, as well as all organizations of the United Fund, for this is freedom.

"They have cut the heart out of the church there, and it can happen here. Go to church, keep the two political parties, they have only one," he said. "Showing the flag of this country, this is the greatest system," he said in conclusion.

Humphrey Needs Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lack of funds and the difficulty of putting together a national organization from scratch apparently is delaying the entry of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey into the Democratic presidential nomination contest.

Among Humphrey's friends in Washington it is generally accepted that the vice president intends to buck Sens. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., for the nomination.

Eugene P. Foley, former head of the Small Business Administration was said to have assured Democrats leaning toward Humphrey that the vice president will run.

Foley spoke for the Humphrey cause at a weekend meeting of Alaska Democrats in Sitka. Some leaders of the 22-vote Alaska delegation to the Democratic National Convention favor Humphrey.

Sen. E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska, is to head the delegation, officially it will go to Chicago uncommitted. Bartlett has not expressed a preference among the prospective candidates. The Alaska delegation will vote as a bloc, bound by the unit rule.

A close associate said that Humphrey lacks the personal financial assets of Kennedy for financing a campaign, and it is too late for him to make a run in the presidential primaries.

This associate said that President Johnson obviously favors Humphrey over the two senators, but the President has made no concrete offer of assistance to his loyal second man.

This leaves the vice president dependent upon administration supporters of Johnson's Vietnam course for the nucleus of an organization.

In Texas, Gov. John Connally is in an open battle with Sen.

Increased Freedom Promised

By HANS BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

PRAQUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Czechoslovakia's new Communist leaders are promising their countrymen freedom to travel and live abroad, less censorship and a reduction in the power of the secret police.

Party leader Alexander Dubcek also told Czechoslovak liberals Tuesday to concentrate on a new constitution with these guarantees and on improving the economy and to stop worrying about further purges of the old guard leadership.

An action program published by the Communist party Tuesday outlined the guarantees for "social democratization" which it said would be incorporated in a new constitution.

It said citizens should have the right to travel freely abroad and reside in Western countries without being "groundlessly placed into the position of emigrants." Sources said planned legislation would permit issuance of passports without regard to the traveler's political attitudes.

By reducing the powers of the secret police, the program said, the party should insure that the police cease to be an instrument to "solve internal political questions" and to control "political convictions and personal opinions."

The new leadership, which ousted Stalinist party chief Antonin Novotny in January, also said "factual preliminary censorship" would end although the government would retain authority to forbid dissemination of certain information.

The party's action program pledged full cooperation with the Soviet Union and other Communist allies but indicated a more independent course in international affairs that might in time include diplomatic relations with West Germany. It called for Czechoslovakia to take an "independent attitude" toward world problems and to "support the forces of realism" in Germany.

Radly Yarborough for favorite son designation from the state's 104-vote convention delegation. Presumably, Connally would like to hold the delegation for Humphrey now that his good friend, the President, has taken himself out of the race.

Humphrey's friends claim they now have won control of the Minnesota state convention which will name 20 at-large delegates of the state's 52 convention delegates. McCarthy believes he will get a substantial share of them.

But some administration supporters, such as Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey and Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, who had been counted upon to deliver heavy-vote delegations to Johnson, are taking a second look at the political situation since the President said he would not accept renomination.

Cervantes A Humphrey Supporter

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mayor A. J. Cervantes of St. Louis apparently wants to start a presidential bandwagon rolling for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The mayor announced at a news conference Tuesday he will meet with the vice president in Washington this week. Cervantes is expected to discuss Thursday the possibility of Humphrey seeking the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I am going to do everything I can to encourage him to seek the nomination," Cervantes declared. "He is the only one with the experience needed to be president of the United States."

Cervantes reportedly discussed a Humphrey campaign with Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago Monday. The St. Louis mayor is said to be canvassing party leaders on the possibility of a Humphrey campaign.

Mayor Cervantes said he would lead a draft-Humphrey movement if the vice president did not seek the nomination. If Humphrey did declare himself in the race, Cervantes said he would be willing to host a conference of Democratic mayors in support of the campaign.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., has antagonized party regulars by entering the race, Cervantes said.

View King Services

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Television permitted all the people of the nation to attend both the private and the public funeral services for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Tuesday.

The three major networks began coverage at 10 a.m. EST, at a time when masses of quiet, orderly people were pressing toward the doors of Atlanta's Ebenezer Baptist Church in such numbers that the viewer frequently feared for the safety of dignitaries, celebrities and private citizens struggling toward the doors.

Television cameras seemed to be everywhere. Viewers had a closeup of the church services, of the sober crowds marching quietly with the coffin in its mule-drawn cart, of the enormous gathering at the public services.

There were many highly emotional moments, climaxed at the end of the services when all joined hands to sing "We Shall Overcome."

Both services were marked by simplicity and great dignity.

Events of such magnitude are not easy for television to cover, but the networks over the years have developed a special and admirable expertise. The reporters' greatest problem was filling the time between the conclusion of the church services and the beginning of the outdoor services four miles distant.

ABC's special, "The Comedy of Ernie Kovacs," was a merry and nostalgic hour.

Kovacs died more than six years ago, but the show, consisting of tape and film of his work compiled by his widow, Edie Adams, treated his humor as if it had been made yesterday. To tell the truth, if some of his wit and humor seemed a little stale, it is because he has so many imitators today.

Itinerant Preacher A Murder Suspect

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — An itinerant preacher booked for vagrancy by Joplin police was questioned Tuesday by the FBI on his whereabouts the day Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated.

The man identified himself as Lynn R. Cleveland, 33, of St. Louis, a Baptist evangelist who travels from town to town. He was arrested on a tip by a woman who called police to say he resembled the description of a man sought in the assassination. Police said a Baxter Springs, Kan., pastor told them Cleveland participated in a service at his church the night of April 3. King was shot the next afternoon in Memphis, Tenn. The pastor, the Rev. Max Wullner, came to Joplin from Baxter Springs for the identification.

Cleveland was picked up at the edge of Joplin on U.S. 71. He said he had been to Springfield, Mo., and was hitching a ride to Tulsa, Okla. He carried several religious pamphlets from Ozark, Ala., Harrison, Ark., and Memphis.

Find Woman's Body Near Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The body of a young woman badly consumed by fire was found in weeds alongside a seldom used gravel road on the northwest edge of Kansas City, Kan., Tuesday.

Police said the victim's fingers were burned and that it was not possible to get fingerprints. They were unable to identify her immediately.

Detective Lt. George Barberich said it appeared she was bound and gagged, and that gasoline was poured over her and set fire at the scene. Dr. Edgar P. Sereres, Wyandotte County coroner, estimated the woman had been dead less than 24 hours.

The body was reported by two boys riding motorcycles on the road, near the ruins of the old abandoned town of Quindaro.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: You will swear this letter is phoney, because my story reads like a four-bit novel but I am begging you to take it seriously because I am on the level.

I go to a well-known girl's school in the East. I became engaged to a Princeton senior three months ago. When I went to his home to meet his parents I flipped over his father. At first I told myself it was too crazy for words and I tried to laugh it off, but I can't laugh any more, and neither can he. We have met in Manhattan several times and he is as zonked over me as I am over him. He wants to divorce his wife and marry me next year.

My fiancé knows nothing of this. I am tearing myself to pieces with indecision. Could it work? He is 27 years older than I am. His wife is three years older than he is and a semi-invalid. After being with Senior, Junior strikes me as Amateur Knight. Could this marriage possibly work? Help me, please. I am not sleeping very well these nights. — MISS ICARUS (GET IT?)

Dear Miss Icarus: Yeah, I get it and my advice is Drop Deadalus—no pun intended. If you can't sleep now how much sleep do you think you'll get if you allow this aging Romeo to dump his ailing wife and walk off with his son's sweetheart? The man must have rocks in his head and you have a few sizable boulders yourself, Kiddo.

This whole scene is a cross between Sigmund Freud and a Greek tragedy. Forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: May I say something in defense of Gladys, the woman who says there is "nothing so terrible" about leaving the price tag on a gift? She has my vote.

I am a store manager who would be very pleased if all the customers left the sales slips, price tags and all other tags on the gifts. When merchandise is brought back to the store for exchange it is a real headache if all signs of size, price, and sales are removed. The person who brings in the article has no knowledge of the purchase, of course, and can be of little help.

The idea of concealing the price so the person will not know what you spent is ridiculous. Most people can just about guess. And what difference does it make anyway? I hope you will print my letter. It would be a public service - especially to the retailers. — DANBURY

Dear Dan: Here's your letter and I am printing it not as a public service but because it represents another point of view. I still say gifts should not be presented with the sales slips and price tags attached. It's bad manners.

Dear Ann Landers: I am engaged to be married in September. My fiancé's closest friend is a guy I can't stand. He tried to break us up and failed. Now he pretends to like me but I know he hates me as much as I hate him.

Last night my fiancé and I were making wedding plans and he said he wants this twerp to be his best man. Ann, like I said, I hate him and it will spoil

To Discuss Moving Surplus River Water

LAMAR, Colo. (AP) — Residents of six states are scheduled to convene in Lamar April 19 to discuss possibilities for moving surplus water from the Missouri River into the high plains area.

The area takes in Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas. A Denver engineering firm will outline a study which has been made of the project.

The proposed plan would deliver an estimated 13 million acre feet of water annually. The water would be lifted through a series of reservoirs and pumping installations in northeast Nebraska to a point near Alliance, in western Nebraska.

my wedding day. I asked my mother what to do about this awful problem and she suggested I write to Ann Landers. So here I am. — NERVOUS INQUIRER

Dear Nervous: The groom has little enough to say about his wedding. Don't deprive him of the privilege of selecting his best man. It wouldn't be fair.

When the subject comes up again, be pleasant and agreeable. He will love you for it.

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS 1 OUT OF 3 DOES

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist. Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. # Real Hawaiian Vanishing

By RON STATON
Associated Press Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — The pure-blooded Hawaiian is rapidly vanishing from the 50th state. But intermarriage with other island ethnic groups has resulted in the part-Hawaiian being one of the state's fastest growing groups.

The 1960 census shows more than 10,000 full-blooded Hawaiians, but state statistician Robert Schmidt says it is "highly questionable whether many people claiming full Hawaiian blood are indeed unimixed."

Hawaiians and part-Hawaiians now make up slightly more than 18 per cent of the state's population. As of July 2, 1967, Hawaii's population was estimated at 674,315, excluding U.S. servicemen and their dependents.

Besides intermarriage, the disappearance of the pure Hawaiian can be attributed to disease in the early missionary days, and a high out-migration in more recent times. Of the 85,000 Hawaiians and part-Hawaiians at the time of the 1950 census, more than 20,000 were living on the mainland by 1960.

Schmidt points out that for every Caucasian that leaves the islands, another Caucasian arrives from the mainland. But when the Hawaiian leaves, there is no in-migration to balance the statistics.

One simple explanation of the demise of the Hawaiians is that they gave while the others got. When the other ethnic groups came to Hawaii, they took advantage of the opportunities. Meanwhile, the Hawaiians gave so completely of themselves and continued living in their care-free, unhurried manner that they found themselves economically on the bottom among the various groups.

This led to a breakdown in family life and resulting social disorganization. Hawaiians have the highest crime rate among the ethnic groups, and also a high illegitimacy rate.

Various programs have been set up to help the Hawaiians, including the Hawaiian Homes Commission Act, passed by Congress in 1920, establishing housing tracts where persons of Hawaiian or part-Hawaiian ancestry can live practically rent free. The state has also provided means of assistance, including a recent program to provide loans to these people for buying their own homes and for education of Hawaiian youth.

Some critics see such programs as a paternalistic effort making the Hawaiians dependent upon others. They equate the Hawaiian Homes lands with American Indian reservations, and say this is making the Hawaiian a second-class citizen in his own native land.

Along with the demise of the pure-blooded Hawaiian is a decline in interest in authentic Hawaiian culture. Hawaiian cultural interest now is usually limited to hula dancing and Hawaiian songs.

But few people know, or are interested in learning, the Hawaiian language or about ancient Hawaiian customs or artifacts. And again—this includes the Hawaiian people.

"The greatest threat to the demise of the Hawaiian culture are the people whom it most concerns," said Napua Stevens, a local radio-television personality.

Zambezi Is Rhodesia's Own 'DMZ'

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer
KAROI, Rhodesia (AP) — "The Zambezi River is our demilitarized zone," said the sun-bronzed farmer, sipping a noon-time beer.

"We are fighting communism here just like the allies in Vietnam," He pointed toward the main road through this prosperous tobacco and corn town. "These terrorists are the same as Viet Cong."

Fighting in the Zambezi Valley between African guerrillas and white soldiers and police is part of the confrontation in southern Africa.

The armed frontier between white and black looms across the continent from Portuguese Angola's Atlantic coast, down to the Zambezi and across northern Mozambique to the Indian Ocean. Fighting has been fluid and desultory, but the tempo of hostilities is rising.

Black guerrillas have been fighting almost eight years in Angola and about four years in Mozambique. They don't have victory in sight, but are taxing Lisbon heavily in men and money.

The confrontation across the Zambezi between Zambia and Rhodesia is newer and potentially more serious. There are signs that this clash is entangled with global East-West power politics.

Rhodesia is a breakaway British territory almost as large as California, populated by some 230,000 whites and more than four million Africans. Infiltrators can choose more than 500 miles of frontier to enter Rhodesia.

Rhodesia is a breakaway British territory almost as large as California, populated by some 230,000 whites and more than four million Africans. Infiltrators can choose more than 500 miles of frontier to enter Rhodesia from Zambia.

The white farmer in Karoi who equates African "freedom fighters" with the Viet Cong knows that guerrillas captured recently were armed with Russian explosives, Czech grenades and Chinese rifles and bazookas. He is aware that they probably were drilled in Tanzania by Chinese or Soviet experts.

Because of trade ties, cultural links, investment policy and traditional arms supplies, the white-ruled south of Africa is identified with the West. Nationalist movements are increasingly being trained, armed and financed by Communist powers. Black nationalist spokesmen in Zambia and Tanzania say they are willing to accept aid from anywhere to help end white rule on the southern tip of Africa.

In Closed Session To Listen to Rusk

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee scheduled a closed session for today to hear Secretary of State Dean Rusk report on peace efforts and other Vietnam-related issues.

The session is an extension of the March 11-12 public hearings at which Rusk defended administration war policies before the committee.

He suggested additional closed meetings, saying they would offer a chance for more candid discussions of matters often involving classified information. Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., agreed.

Campaign Resumes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1968 political campaign—at a virtual standstill since the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King and the violence it touched off—regained momentum today.

Sens. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., the only announced Democratic presidential candidates, planned campaigning in Indiana and Nebraska, respectively.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, reported ready to enter the Democratic race after Easter, was a likely candidate to throw out the first ball at the Washington Senators American League baseball season opener against the Minnesota Twins.

Republican Richard M. Nixon was the only announced presidential candidate with no campaign plans for the day.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller—citing "crisis and confusion probably without parallel in our history"—meanwhile announced he is readying major position statements on national and international issues.

All five of the political figures were among national leaders who attended King's funeral Tuesday in Atlanta.

Rockefeller said March 21 when he declared he was not a presidential candidate that he would speak out on the issues and try to influence his party's platform and philosophies.

He also said then that he would accept a presidential draft.

While McCarthy headed for Nebraska, his appeal to Connecticut Democrats was being tested in 30 local primaries for the election of state convention delegates.

Delegate slates pledged to the Minnesotans were running in all 30 of the primaries and opposing slates were not publicly committed to any other candidate.

Although the vote will test McCarthy's strength, it will not necessarily secure any of Connecticut's national convention votes for him. The primaries select only 350 of the 960 state convention delegates—who select and instruct the delegates to the national convention.

The Sedalia Police took five persons into custody Tuesday night for investigation of larceny following a report from the Missouri Public Service Co., on South Ingram.

According to the police report, a quantity of copper wire was stolen from the MPSC plant.

Five are Hurt In Accident On Interstate

Five persons were injured seriously in a one-car accident at 12 a.m. Wednesday on Interstate 70, seven miles east of Sweet Springs. Involved was a pickup truck driven east on Interstate 70 by Mrs. Carol Ann Jones, Orrick, Mo.

According to the Highway Patrol, Mrs. Jones apparently fell asleep at the wheel and lost control. The truck, pulling a trailer, ran off the highway and overturned.

Mrs. Jones received back injuries and head lacerations. Her husband, Leland Jones, received back and shoulder injuries and severe lacerations over his entire body. Bryan Jones, 7, received a broken arm and head lacerations, and Dean Jones, 4, and Glenn Jones, 3, received head lacerations.

All five were admitted to Community Hospital in Sweet Springs.

The truck was a total loss and the contents of the trailer were spilled.

Pushes for Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Action on recommendations of the Riot Commission report was urged Tuesday by Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo. He called for formation of a congressional committee to study problems of American cities and implement the recommendations.

"Congress must act if our society is to retain the mechanism of an open study and deliberative body in which the people can participate," Curtis said.

Joseph L. Mueller, 1201 East 19th, is one of 876 students at the University of Missouri at Rolla who were selected for the first honor list. A student must maintain a 3.0 average out of a possible 4.0 to be selected for the list.

Three Sedalia area students were also selected for the second honor list at the university. A student must maintain a 2.75 to 3.0 average to be selected for the second list. Those students named were: Larry Russell Burke, 2516 Highland; William George Cain, 805 West Broadway and Tom Allen McFadden, 916 West Sixth.

M.U. Awards In Journalism Set May 3

COLUMBIA, Mo. — The Missouri Honor Award for Distinguished Service in Journalism will be presented to seven recipients on May 3 during the 59th annual Journalism Week at the University of Missouri — Columbia.

Dean Earl F. English of the School of Journalism will present the bronze award medals to two individuals, a newspaper, a magazine, an encyclopedia, a television program and a journalism education fund.

Seymour Topping, foreign news editor of the New York Times, and Ben F. Weir, Sr., publisher of the Nevada (Mo.) Daily Mail, will be the individual recipients.

The honor awards will also go to:

Hugh Downs, moderator, accepting for NBC's "The Today Show."

F. M. Flynn, president and publisher, accepting for the New York Daily News.

Sir William Haley, editor in chief, accepting for Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Paul S. Swenson, executive director, accepting for The Newspaper Fund, Inc.

Richard L. Tobin, managing editor, accepting for Saturday Review.

Dean English said Downs and Sir William will address the journalism banquet on the evening of May 3 in Rothwell Gymnasium.

Dinner music was by Danny Eckles.

Police Guard King Tomb

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Uniformed police stood watch today at the tomb of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the slain civil rights leader whose funeral brought outpourings of mourners and tributes rarely matched in the nation's history.

Mourners trickled into South View Cemetery for a look at the crypt even after darkness fell Tuesday. Inscribed on the Georgia marble are the words of an old slave song often quoted by King: "Free at Last, Free at Last; Thank God Almighty, I'm Free at Last."

A police official said the guards were posted as a precaution, and there had been no hint of attempts to molest the grave. King, 39, was killed by a sniper in Memphis, Tenn. He had returned for another march of striking garbage workers after an earlier march erupted into rioting.

His followers called for the nation to look at itself anew as they pledged at the final rites to carry out his crusade against racism, poverty and injustice. "Let us see to it that we do not dishonor his name by trying to solve our problems through rioting in the streets," urged Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, retired president of Morehouse College, King's alma mater, where outdoor services were held.

"But let us see to it also that the conditions that cause riots are promptly removed," said Mays. "Let black and white alike search their hearts; and if there be any prejudice in our hearts against any racial or ethnic group, let us exterminate it."

Mays, who taught King in college, said the American people, including Memphis officials, are in part responsible for the assassination. In a similar vein, the biracial Southern Regional Council, a human rights organization, said in a four-column newspaper ad that white America faces "the choice between the kind of society for which Dr. King lived and died, and the kind of society which denies equal opportunity."

Marching had been a big part of King's life. So in death, there was a final march for Martin Luther King. His wreath-shrouded coffin traveled more than four miles over Atlanta streets in a faded green farm wagon drawn by two brown mules—symbolic of the poor whose cause he had taken up.

Thousands marched with King the last time.

Ahead of the old wagon, behind it, beside it, in wide and uneven columns, numbering upwards of 50,000, they marched with the man who was called by most of the black mourners simply "our leader."

At the Morehouse rites following the march from Ebenezer Baptist Church, attendance was estimated at 150,000 by police. Red Cross workers cared for several hundred persons stricken by heat exhaustion in 80-degree weather.

The prominent names at a memorial service in Ebenezer, where King was co-pastor with his father, included Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, representing President Johnson. The vice president got up to move to the front pew where King's widow sat with her four children and there he offered condolences to her.

Other notables at the service included Mrs. John F. Kennedy, who like Mrs. King was widowed by an assassin's bullet; Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts; Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota; former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Gov. George Romney of Michigan, and former Gov. Carl E. Sanders of Georgia.

Gov. Lester Maddox, who disagreed with King's tactics and closed a restaurant rather than integrate it before taking office, did not attend nor did he send a representative. Maddox closed the Capitol early, at 2 p.m., for what he called security reasons as 160 state troopers stood by inside the building.

National Guardsmen were airlifted into the Atlanta area during the funeral; more than 2,000 stood by at Dobbins Air Force Base in Marietta. Authorities described the move as precautionary.

By the time the day-long rites drew to an end on a grassy slope in the cemetery, founded 80 years ago by Negroes because of racial discrimination, the skies were overcast and rain threatened.

At the church service, King's own recorded voice was heard by the packed crowd, including Black Power leader Stokely Carmichael who rejected King's philosophy of nonviolence after the 1966 Mississippi march.

A tape recorder filled the hushed sanctuary with the vibrant, familiar oratory: "We all think about it and every now and then I think about my own death and I think about my own funeral... I don't want a long funeral..."

The sound of weeping filled the church where King had preached that sermon Feb. 4, 1968.

King's recorded voice said he didn't want mentioned his Nobel Peace Prize and other honors. "I want you to say that day that I tried to be right... And I want you to say that I tried to live and serve humanity."

"Yes, if you want to, say that I was a drum major. Say that I was a drum major for justice. Say that I was a drum major for peace; I was a drum major for righteousness."

"And all of the other shallow things will not matter..."

To Urge Enactment Of Recommendations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke, only Negro member of the Senate, says he will file a package of bills later this month proposing congressional enactment of the presidential riot panel's recommendations on jobs, welfare and housing.

Brooke, who was a member of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, said jobs would get top priority among his proposals.

The commission recommended that 2 million new jobs be created in the next three years for the underemployed and jobless—550,000 of them this year. It recommended construction of 6 million housing units in five years and a vast overhaul of the welfare system.

Brooke and other commission members said in interviews that immediate action is needed to help solve some of the problems which contributed to the street violence ignited by the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King and the rioting of past year.

See Little Change On Farm Scene

WASHINGTON (AP) — Changes in the nation's industrial production pattern which would come from peace in Viet Nam would unlikely be matched by changes in agriculture.

While industry would shift from producing war materials to peacetime needs, federal farm officials foresee few changes in the demand for food. Of course, there could be price and market difficulties for agriculture, particularly should there be a temporary downturn in industrial employment.

There already is a possibility that farm production this year may fall a little below last year's record. This will depend largely on the weather. Unusually good weather could easily bring crop volumes up to last year's high level.

The government has called for reductions in plantings of feed grains and wheat. But it has recommended an increase in cotton. Grain reserve stocks are at favorable levels, but cotton supplies are below normal.

The government-recommended crop reductions were made because crop prices declined with last year's record harvest. Farmers are making some downward adjustments in the production of meat animals, poultry and potatoes — also in moves to bolster prices.

Hire County Hunter

MCMINNVILLE, Ore. (AP) — Yamhill County, some 35 miles southwest of the Portland metropolitan area, has hired Maurice Maynor as its new county hunter. Maynor formerly was a bear hunter on the Oregon coast.

The Division of Wildlife Services and Yamhill County jointly employ the trapper who can hunt coyote, bobcat, fox, mountain lions and other predators when his help is requested.

Cabinet Changes Expected

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Changes in the Polish Cabinet were in prospect today as the purge of government and Communist party ranks continued in the wake of student unrest.

The 460-member Parliament convened Tuesday for its spring session and was told it would deal with Cabinet changes and election of a new president to replace Edward Ochab, who resigned Monday pleading "deteriorating health."

Informed sources said the new president is likely to be Defense Minister Marian Spychalski, 61, considered a staunch supporter of Communist party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka.

Although Ochab, who is nearly blind, cited health in asking to be relieved as president, a Yugoslav report said his name had been linked recently with the student unrest which erupted in antigovernment rioting last month.

The report, by the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug, said the officials to be replaced are members of the faction which spent the war in the Soviet Union. It indicated they were losing out to the ultranationalist faction of World War II Communist underground fighters led by Maj. Gen. Mieczyslaw Moczar, the minister of interior and head of the secret police.

Most of those to be ousted are also Jews, Tanjug said. A number of Jews already have been dismissed as a result of the student disturbances, which the government has blamed on Zionists, revisionists and former Stalinists.

Killed in Accident

NEVADA, Mo. (AP)—A car and a pickup truck collided four miles south of Nevada on U.S. 71 killing a Slater, Mo., woman Tuesday.

Dead is Edna Bessie Lutes, 70. Her husband, Henry, 74, and the truck driver, John Jacob Schmidt, 66, of Eldorado Springs, Mo., were injured.

Ventures Explanation

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A Princeton University astrophysicist has offered a tentative explanation for the recently discovered pulsars—pulsating radio signals from space—whose origins scientists have been unable to explain.

Dr. Jeremiah Ostriker believes the signals may be coming from rapidly rotating white dwarf stars. He theorized that if a high-energy disturbance similar to a sunspot occurred on the surface of such stars, the radio signals emitted from the disturbance would pulsate with the star's rotation.

Sophomore Career Brunch Given By Women's Club

Explains Careers

E. M. Tornquist, (background), civilian personnel officer at Whiteman Air Force Base, Knob Noster, explained careers for women in government work at the Sophomore Career Brunch held Tuesday at Convention Hall.

Something different and delightful for the sophomore girls of Pettis County was the Sophomore Career Brunch given by the Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday morning, April 9, at Convention Hall.

By 9 o'clock young girls, looking as pretty and colorful as spring flowers, began arriving in busses and were welcomed by members of the Personal Development Committee of which Mrs. W.C. Askew is chairman, and other members of BPWC.

As they entered the large room they wandered from booth to booth picking up informative literature on various careers in which they might be interested. But better still they watched as young beauticians styled hair and Mrs. Fran Branson talked to them about cosmetology; they visited the booth where nurses and student nurses in crisp white uniforms and caps answered questions; they watched a film on accounting, saw pictures of the Children's Therapy Center and heard about a career of medical therapy, of careers in government services; saw a display of products of Sedalia industries.

The girls from LaMonte, Green Ridge, Smithton, Northwest, Smith-Cotton and Sacred Heart High Schools, 375 of them, found seats and listened attentively to the program, many of them asking questions about careers they were most interested in.

Greetings were brought by Mrs. Askew, who then introduced Miss Erna Ann McClure, president of the BPWC, Miss McClure welcomed the girls and told them that if, at anytime, they needed the help of the Business and Professional Women's Club the members would be glad to assist.

Mrs. Askew then introduced Mrs. Herbert Eno of the Bothwell Hospital staff and some of the young nurses who told of the Centra Missouri State College, Department of Nursing, Warrensburg, explaining the college is close and part of the training is at Bothwell Hospital. Two scholarships are given by Bothwell Hospital each year and are selected by academic ability and need. There is also a loan from the hospital. The one thing required in the scholarship is that they work one year at Bothwell. The girls pointed out that studies needed for nursing in high school preparation are science, chemistry and math. There are also loans available at CMSC.

Mrs. Opal Walker, MT. (ASCP) told of the medical technicians, which, she said, are similar to nurses. CMSC has a program in medical technology, also, she said, and these are a great many fields. The salary scale has come up the past few years too, she said.

From the Children's Therapy Center Mrs. Carolyn Marshall, occupational therapist, and Mrs. Pat Shepherd, speech therapist talked on their work which is principally for rehabilitation. For a public school therapist career a B.S. degree is all that is necessary but a certificate for other therapy requires a master's degree. If you can pass the national examinations, she said, you can practice anywhere. In speech therapy, Mrs. Shepherd said, they have them count first to see speech defects or identify pictures shown them so they can hear the pronunciation of words.

E.M. Tornquist, Jr., Civilian Personnel Officer, Whiteman AFB, told of the advantages of working for the government, the retiring plan and the sick leave. He told of various fields in government work, and advised them if they were interested in a certain type of the work to ask for information at the Post Office. Each job, he said, in a classification has a grade and you are paid not for the work you do but for the responsibility. Think ahead and plan for the future, he said. There is no job, no position in government a woman cannot have if she is capable.

Mrs. Shirley Wagner told of Certified Public Accountants saying the phases include auditing, law and theory. There are many scholarships and a junior accountant receives $4,500 and up. Math is helpful. There are 2,500 women CPAs and some of the highest salaries come from managing computer programs. It is necessary to be a college graduate to be a CPA and two years in a certified accountants office is needed to practice.

Mrs. Fran Branson, Sedalia School of Hairdressing, talked on cosmetology. She complimented the girls on their good grooming, and said that some had long hair, some short hair, but all looked well cared for. It takes seven months, five days a week, to complete the course in cosmetology, which adds up to 1220 hours in Missouri. Some states require 1500 hours. If you have been a licensed beautician for two years, credit is allowed in other states. She told the high school girls that young girls should be natural, leaving their hair as it is without tinting.

William H. Hall, industrial development director, talked on opportunities for women in industries and pointed out that all the fields the others had talked on were also used in industry. Some industries have beauty shops for the convenience of their employees. He stated that there are 72 separate industries in Sedalia and there are more local opportunities coming up.

Youth Director Charles Spradley from the Pettis County University of Missouri Extension Center talked briefly on scholarships available at practically all colleges in the state and advised the girls to see their school counselors. There are two to three million dollars worth of scholarships that go unclaimed because young people do not know how to get scholarships.

Roylee Peters of the MMCAC talked on community action and said the common sense is a most valuable thing. The government youth corps assists young people in staying in school and offers them opportunity. He stressed the importance of time that is not put to good use and is lost forever.

Fred Davis, the Community College president, told the group that this college will offer two years that will be good in practically any four year college, and he has already received many letters telling him they will accept these credits.

Mrs. Askew introduced those who had helped in making the affair such a success: Mrs. Helen Bond, Miss Opal O'Brian, Mrs. Juanita Waggoner, Mrs. Nyra Price, Mrs. Mary K. Hunter.

Mrs. Earleen Dick was in charge of the food for the brunch. Serving from two tables covered with white net over pale green, the setting was beautiful. On one table an arrangement of fruit in crystal centered the table on each side of which were pale green candles in tall cut glass candle holders. At each end were little trees one with slices of bananas covered with coconut and nuts, and another with decorated donut holes. There were smaller trees with marshmallows centered with different colored gumdrops, and watermelon shells held red melon balls. Toothpick holders were bananas, oranges and apples. A large round crystal tray was filled with different kinds of fruits, strawberries, oranges, grapefruit slices and whole pineapple in the center. On the other table was an arrangement of yellow and lavender flowers with green candles with a silver service on one end and a punch bowl on the other.

Debate on Tax Hike Put on Sidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional tug-of-war over a tax increase-spending cut plan has been called off for at least several weeks.

A conference of House and Senate members trying to work out a bill acceptable to both chambers agreed Tuesday not to press the fight for now.

The Senate has passed a bill which includes provisions for a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes, a $6 billion spending cut and a 315,000 rollback in the number of federal employees.

However, the House normally takes the first action on tax bills and is working on its own tax-spending plan.

The conference committee did adopt a resolution calling for a temporary extension of two federal excise taxes—10 per cent on telephone service and 7 per cent on cars.

These taxes technically dropped to 1 and 2 per cent respectively April 1 but have been collected at the higher rates on the assumption Congress would extend them retroactively.

Gift Fund Receives $1 Million

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government's special gift fund to help reduce the national debt has collected its first $1 million from the citizenry after almost seven years of operation.

But it hardly kept pace with the ever-swelling debt—now about $61 billion larger than it was when the special fund was set up by law on June 27, 1961.

Treasury officials said Tuesday they had collected $1,021,500.65 in gifts for debt retirement through the end of last month.

Obviously the fund isn't designed to wipe out the entire debt which is now more than $350 billion. It's simply a handy place to account for gifts received by the Treasury for debt retirement.

Gifts have ranged from less than $1 to many thousands of dollars and include the contributions of one man who sends a check each year equal to his age—71 this year.

Most of the fund's income can be traced to the will of Susan Vaughan Clayton of Houston, Tex., who willed half the income from a trust fund to help retire the debt. It has meant hundreds of thousands of dollars for the government.

Rep. Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., who sponsored the bill to set up the special fund, contributed the first $1,000. All other donors remain anonymous at Treasury insistence.

The fund has regular contributors in addition to the one-shot gifts sent in a wave of patriotism or disgust with the rapid increase of the debt itself.

In sending a check for $71 earlier this year, the man who contributes according to his age wrote: "I follow this custom to remind myself of the great debt I owe my country for the privilege of being a part of it."

Washington Capsules

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal agency says railroad accidents are increasing, causing more death and damage—and forcing more evacuations of populated areas when hazardous material is involved.

The National Transportation Safety Board said Tuesday it found those trends in a survey of railroad accidents since 1960. It said the government should step in if railroads don't improve safety practices.

Board Chairman Joseph J. O'Connell Jr. said derailments increased 66.5 per cent from 1961 to 1966 and the study "clearly shows deteriorating track conditions are causing derailments."

"Higher speeds, longer and heavier trains, and the growing carriage of deadly and hazardous materials," he said, "may well increase the already serious consequences of unsafe practices."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says it will not penalize taxpayers who miss the April 15 income tax filing deadline because of lost records or other direct results of recent racial disorders.

But while the 5 per cent penalty will not be assessed, the IRS said it must by law charge one-half of one per cent interest per month on overdue taxes.

The service said taxpayers affected must file returns as quickly as possible and enclose letters establishing the delay was caused by the disturbances and was outside the taxpayer's control.

Capital Footnotes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The U.S. Public Health Service is establishing mobile Natural Disaster Hospitals in areas where tornadoes, hurricanes and other disasters frequently occur so they can be immediately moved to the scene of an emergency. The first NDH—crated medical supplies and equipment—has been placed at Enid, Okla., in the tornado belt.

Chairman John E. Horne of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board says "interest rates which are already high may go even higher." The average rate on conventional loans for new houses reached 6.46 in February, approaching record levels of 1966.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Somewhere, we've got to find hundreds of thousands of jobs this summer, jobs that pay a decent wage. We've got to do it fast. Right now," Rep. James Corman, D-Calif., member of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders.

Approaches At Cross Purposes

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the basis of their public positions the United States and North Vietnam are working at cross purposes in their different approaches to Vietnam peace talks.

North Vietnam wants preliminary discussions on when President Johnson will end the rest of the bombing of its territory.

Before ending the rest of the bombing, however, Johnson wants to know whether North Vietnam will level off its heavy infiltration of men and supplies into South Vietnam.

Without some assurance on this point, administration officials say, Johnson would consider it militarily dangerous to stop the limited bombing of the North still permitted under his March 31 order.

Thus the prospects for successful peace talks are regarded in Washington as essentially discouraging at the moment despite the speed of diplomatic developments between Washington and Hanoi during the last 10 days.

But public positions can be changed in private bargaining, and some officials believe an accommodation on the bombing issue may be possible.

North Vietnam's position was made official in its reply Monday to a U.S. message of April 3 notifying Hanoi that Johnson was prepared to establish contact with representatives of North Vietnam.

Johnson plans to send Ambassador-at-Large W. Averell Harriman to handle the first phase of preliminary discussions on how to get full-scale peace talks started.

The date and place for these discussions have not been agreed upon. The United States had suggested Geneva; North Vietnam proposed Phnom Penh, Cambodia, where the United States does not have an embassy. Rangoon, Burma, is considered a possible compromise but neither of the other sites has been finally ruled out.

The U.S. reply to the message from Hanoi, which the White House announced Monday, is expected to be sent in the immediate future. Present indications are that the reply will deal primarily with a date and place for Harriman and the North Vietnamese representative to meet, rather than with the issues to be discussed.

The North Vietnamese message was not made public.

IN RANKS

Gunnery Mate Second Class Larry J. Pangburn, USN, of 1200 South Summit, participated in the Atlantic Spacecraft recovery force operations for the Apollo Six unmanned space flight, as a crewman aboard the amphibious ship USS York County.

Airman First Class Maurice D. Tankersley, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Tankersley, Versailles, is a member of the U.S. Air Force specialist teams sent to the Republic of Korea during the U.S. Forces buildup triggered by the North Korean crisis. Airman Tankersley is permanently assigned at Clark AB, Philippines. He is a 1965 graduate of Morgan County High School.

Army Specialist 4 Charles M. Smethers, 22, son of C. W. Smethers, 2300 East Broadway, is participating in "Operation Truong Cong Dinh" in Vietnam with other members of the 9th Infantry Division. Named after a Vietnamese patriot, the operation is designed to drive the Communists away from the major population centers and keep traffic moving on Route 4, the vital lifeline between Saigon and the southernmost region of the delta.

His wife, Sherry, lives at 2424 First Street.

Plans have been announced for a major building addition to the Southwestern Bell Telephone installation at Eldon. The program will include expansion of the current building and addition of central office and long distance equipment.

The addition will include a basement and two floors. The addition will be constructed laterally 97 feet to the north on Oak and 80 feet to the rear along North Street.

Razing is to begin soon on the present building, as well as a dwelling near the building. Target date for completion is next March.

Cost of the project, including the building addition and new equipment, will be more than $815,000. The firm recently completed construction of a work center at Eldon at a cost of $62,000, and expanded area service was introduced to Eldon customers for the first time.

Joe Thompson III, Eldon manager, said the addition was necessitated by growth in the Eldon area. "When the company took over the Ozark Central Telephone Co., in 1953, there were only 192 telephones in Eldon. Now there are about 3,500 phones with even greater increases expected in the future," Thompson said.

People In The News

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Maria Cristina Diligenti, one of the five quintuplets born to an Argentine couple in 1943, is engaged to marry a doctor from St. Paul.

Announcement was made Monday of the engagement of Maria, 24, to Dr. Bruce Robert Zimmerman, 25, who got his medical degree at the University of Minnesota and is an intern at Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas, Tex. Zimmerman met his fiancée there.

They plan a May 25 wedding at St. Mark's Catholic Church here.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franco Jaime Diligenti of Buenos Aires. On July 15, 1943, Mrs. Diligenti gave birth to three girls and two boys.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Freedom House Award was presented to cellist Pablo Casals Monday night for the "mode of action and quality of character" needed to be "a free man in a free world."

Casals has lived in exile from his native Spain since the 1930s and has vowed not to return until after the rule of Francisco Franco ends.

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Prince Charles has decided he's had enough of old bones.

He is quitting his course of anthropology and archaeology at Cambridge to take up history.

"I think it's quite a good idea for Charles to change," said Lord Butler, master of Trinity College where the prince is studying.

Butler said he thought history a more appropriate subject for the 19-year-old heir to the British throne.

Charles, a freshman, has given no personal explanation for the change.

News Media Earn Praise of Mayor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mayor of the nation's capital has praised the news media for its coverage of the disorders in his city that have left 6 dead and more than 1,000 injured.

"Never in my public life, never in my experience have I seen a more responsive press and a more responsive media," Mayor Walter Washington told a televised news conference Monday night.

Washington said he felt "I should say, as mayor of this town, that I am appreciative, and I should say for the citizens of this city that I am appreciative for the press, radio and TV that has reported, and reported accurately and reported well and fast so you could keep abreast and be assured of the conditions as they advanced and progressed."

IN THE NEWS

OJAI, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. flag over Ojai City Hall went back briefly to full staff Monday until residents demanded it be lowered again in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Some residents charged that Mayor A. R. Huckins ordered the flag raised, after it was lowered to half-staff all weekend, because he didn't approve of the policies of King.

New Violence Be Disservice To Dr. King's Goals

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., whose father was assassinated, says that anyone who retaliates with violence for the death of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. is doing a disservice to the memory of the Negro leader. In comparing the assassinations 33 years apart, Long said Monday he did not think of revenge for the death of his father.

er, Sen. Huey P. Long, D-La. "I had to accept the fact that there were—or at least had been—people who thought the state, or the nation, or the world would be better off if my daddy was dead," said Long, who was then 17 years old. Neither violence nor revenge is the answer."

And now, for the brighter side of the news

NEW DX GAME OFFERS MORE CHANCES TO WIN

'Extra DXtra Dough' Features Excellent Odds—More Prizes New Camaros, Thousands of Cash Awards

DX is giving away new 1968 V-8 Camaros. These cars are among the special "instant" prizes.

INSTANT WINNERS

"Instant" prizes are those which require only one lucky ticket to win. There will be many thousands of these prizes, including DX Super-Boron gasoline and new Camaros.

FUN TO PLAY

To play Extra DXtra Dough, any licensed driver may get a ticket, like the one shown here, at any participating DX service station. Just erase the gold spot to discover your letter. Save the letters until they spell out the winning combination. Or, you might be an instant on-the-spot winner with just one ticket. The more often you play, the better your chances. No purchase is necessary, a DX official emphasized, and the game is void where prohibited by law. "DX is the oil company known by the customers we keep," he said, adding "this game will make many of them happier than ever."

No Sign Yet Of Man Who Killed King

By BILL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The task of finding the person who killed Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. apparently has settled down to the grueling police routine of sifting every clue and checking every lead.

There was no talk of an early arrest, as there had been shortly after King was assassinated last Thursday night. Robert G. Drewry and John C. Moore, the two U.S. commissioners here, said they had not been approached to issue a fugitive warrant by either the FBI or the U.S. attorney.

As federal officials pressed their manhunt, there were reports of arrests in various parts of the country and of a widespread search in Mexico.

The Mexican rumor started after Rolando Veloz, the Mexican counsel here, told authorities there was a resemblance between a composite sketch carried in a local newspaper and a young man who applied for a tourist card the day before King was shot.

The young man turned out to be a 19-year-old student at Memphis State University, Memphis police said. They said what was thought to be a false address and phone number were those of his father in Park Ridge, Ill. They dismissed the possibility that he was connected with the case.

In Washington, the Justice Department denied that the investigation had extended into Mexico. The Memphis Commercial Appeal said however it had learned that the FBI had contacted the central police office in Mexico City.

It was learned that the gun found abandoned in a doorway next to the building from which police say the shot was fired was not among those stolen from a sporting goods store two days before the slaying.

B.C. Dowdle, proprietor of the store, said a police detective telephoned him the serial number of the Remington pump action rifle that was found and asked him to check it against the numbers of the stolen guns.

Railroad Trestle, Cars Are Damaged

BELLFLOWER, Mo. (AP) — Fire destroyed a Burlington Railroad trestle Tuesday night near Bellflower and damaged several railroad cars.

The fire on the bridge got its start when an axle snapped and showered sparks from the steel rails to the wooden trestle. The possibility of an explosion prevented firemen from extinguishing the blaze and the trestle was virtually destroyed.

After the fire cooled railroad workers found that the car believed to contain explosive material was actually empty. Marshal James White of Bellflower said.

As the trestle burned it slowly collapsed under the weight of the cars until two cars were hanging at a sharp angle.

Burning Plane Lands Safely

LONDON (AP) — Two days after a jetliner lost a burning engine and crashed landed at London Airport, another with actress Patricia Neal and 74 other persons aboard landed today with smoke pouring from one engine.

No fire developed.

"I saw the smoke pouring out the engine," said Miss Neal, "but I wasn't worried. Everyone was calm and the pilot made a perfect landing."

The actress was returning from New York after filming "The Subject Was Roses," her first movie since she was crippled by a series of strokes three years ago. She is now fully recovered.

The Trans World Airlines plane was a Boeing 707.

One engine of a BOAC Boeing 707 caught fire Monday two minutes after the plane took off from London for Australia with 126 persons aboard. The engine fell off and the plane headed back with the left wing in flames. Capt. Charles Taylor landed the big jetliner. Five persons were killed.

Irish Reception Honors Members Of Local OES

A reception honoring the Side Line members of the California Chapter, Order of Eastern Star No. 521, was held in the dining room of the Masonic Temple following the regular meeting of the chapter. Chapter officers and the 1968 program committee served as hostess.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Mabel Carr, worthy matron, Edgar Railton, worthy patron and Mr. and Mrs. Don Matthews, associate matron and associate patron.

Tables were decorated in an Irish decor and the welcome was given by Mrs. Carr. Mrs. Don Matthews and Hugh Alexander then led the group in singing. Mrs. Ralph Robb read the story of St. Patrick and Mrs. Hubert Gentsch read two poems, written by two of her pupils at the Jamestown school.

Don Matthews, Lawrence Cook, Mrs. Beulah Umbarger and Mrs. Mildred Papen did an Irish jig. Mrs. Mable Carr read a poem "A Tribute to Sideliners" written by Mrs. Lawrence Cook. Charles Barry and Mrs. Anna Margaret Pullen received a prize.

Question About Sex of Robbers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three women—or were they?—robbed a Bank of America branch in Highland Park of $3,713.

After talking with clerks, police said at least two of the bandits were men in women's clothing and heavy makeup.

The woman who covered the getaway from the lobby Tuesday apparently was the real thing, investigators said.

Obsolete ROTC Under Attack

By TOM TIEDE
NEA Staff Correspondent

FORT MONROE, Va.—(NEA)—The scene is much the same at colleges from Boston to Berkeley this week. Thousands of uniformed students are mustering on open fields to perform the ageless military rite of a parade.

"A...bout...HACE."

Predictably, all the troops are not happy at their work. Some of them are yawning contemptuously. Still others are fully asleep on their feet.

"Hut, to, hut, hut, hut."

"Left, Left! Dammit, you nincompoops, turn LEFT!"

It is, of course, ROTC (Reserve Officer Training Corps) at its familiar best, or worse. And this week nearly 235,000 "nincompoops" (engineers, mathematicians, lawyers) are turning "left" at drills on 250 participating campuses.

The spectacle is fun, but hardly new. ROTC is almost as old as the nation. Faced with a continuing and often critical need for new officers, the U.S. armed forces have since 1820 used colleges as recruiting factories.

And well that they have. Without the program, the nation's military structure would have collapsed on several occasions. During World War II, for example, more than 100,000 ROTCers plugged up serious leaks in U.S. combat leadership.

Indeed, the benefits of the program have been enormous. Over 25 per cent of all military officers presently on duty are ROTC graduates, and this spring the colleges will commission 19,000 more, badly needed lieutenants and ensigns.

But if the benefits of ROTC have been considerable, so, too, have the headaches.

Loud-singing hippies (with flowers in squirt-gun barrels) are showing up at ROTC drills. Protest demonstrations are blocking some military science thresholds. Anti-ROTC petitions abound...and so do critical student editorials. Some violence has been felt, several noses have been bloodied.

Students at Tuskegee Institute in Alabama recently staged a classroom boycott to protest, among other things, "this stupid compulsory ROTC thing."

A Yale University newspaper recently called for an end to granting academic credits for military training, citing ROTC as out of accord with "Yale tradition."

Hampton Institute in Virginia is still reeling from the effects of black vigilante Stokely Carmichael's call for the burning down of campus ROTC offices.

Says Kevin Tigh, a sometimes student, all-the-time critic at Berkeley: "ROTC is propaganda and it has no place in a college curriculum. I feel the Army should hire its little murderers someplace else."

Adds Bertram Garskof, a psychology instructor at Michigan State University: "ROTC is like an island of indoctrination in a sea of academic freedom."

Ditto such opinion all across the land.

To be sure, military classes have always been the object of some scorn. Campus objectors have long fought against such ROTCisms as "subservient" treatment, short haircuts, and uneducated ROTC cadres.

Today, however, the argument is no longer a skirmish. "It's war," says a West Coast Air Force instructor who declines use of his name but whose comments on "these bearded traitors" would fairly wilt a wingtip.

"These kids are Communists," says the instructor. "They stink. They really get me. I'm sick to death of the rotten little radical freaks."

On balance, however, radicals are far from being the lone objectors to the ROTC program. Some criticism, in fact, stems from ROTC students themselves.

Mainly, the participating students complain that class instruction is out of date, distastefully boring, and prejudiced along established lines.

In short, many feel it simply isn't academically worthwhile.

Says Mark Stevens, editor of the student newspaper at Washington State University: "I think we have a fair ROTC staff here, but I don't feel they are reaching many of the students. They aren't getting across."

"They are teaching yesterday's propaganda. Students today aren't that gullible about things."

And it's not only the military instruction that's out of date, students say, it's military equipment also.

A colonel at Hampton Institute, just a few miles from Army ROTC headquarters at Ft. Monroe, confesses that his classes learn about military rifles from a wooden mock-up of an M-1, a weapon that is strategically extinct.

Another colonel at Ohio State University says he has 200 rifles in his arms room, and they are used to train an enrollment of 4,800 ROTC students.

M-16s, (the "Vietnam equalizers") cannot be found on any campus in America, except on a short-loan basis. New communications equipment is also almost totally lacking from the reserve officer training inventory.

"We are learning about yesterday," says a graduating ROTC'er at New York University. "They (the military staff) either can't or won't teach us about today's war. It's all I can do to keep my eyes open in my classes."

In fairness, it should be noted that not all ROTC students today are sleeping at their desks, and not all campus students are pushing for the military's demise. Many, perhaps most, students are quite satisfied with ROTC.

But the creeping trend is an ominous one. College enrollment has risen nearly 50 per cent in the past decade, but ROTC enrollment has fallen off in the same period. There are 234,000 ROTCers this year. There were 266,000 last.

As one worried officer puts it: "We won't get anywhere going downhill."

Mayor Speaks At BPW Meet

Knob Noster Mayor R. M. Scott was the guest speaker at the April dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club, held April 1, at Dot's Restaurant.

Mayor Scott discussed the Show-Me Regional Planning Commission, in which the city of Knob Noster is participating and he is a representative. The purpose of the organization, Mayor Scott explained, is to plan for future development of cities and surrounding areas.

He stated that a consultant has been hired by the group to study and make recommendations for the projected growth in these areas. Expansion of industry, utility needs, and financing of the program was discussed. He said the Knob Noster city planning board has recommended city boundary lines be extended on all sides. Also in the future there will be continuous cities along highways 50 and 40 from Kansas City to St. Louis.

During the business meeting the following officers were elected for the year: President, Mrs. Mary Jo McGuire; first vice president, Mrs. Charles L. Henderson; second vice president, Mrs. Eddie Henson; third vice president, Mrs. Robert Maxwell; recording secretary, Mrs. Albert Hudson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. E. Saults; and treasurer, Mrs. Albert Byrd.

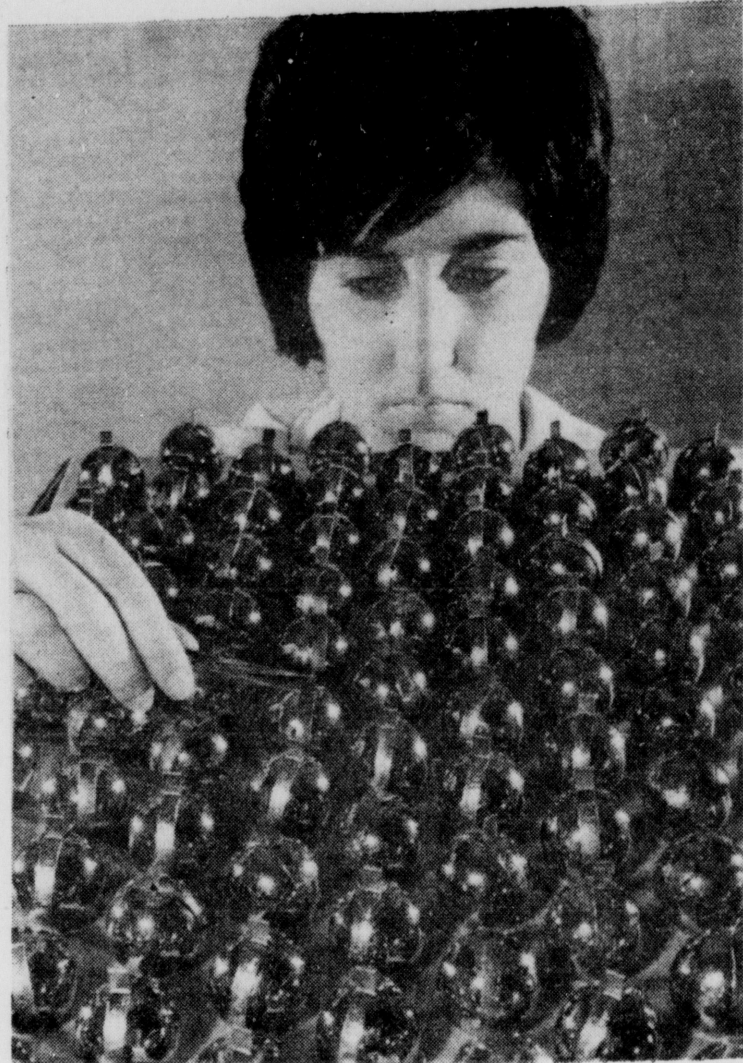

Mrs. Henson reported that cakes were sent to the three Knob Noster doctors, to the dental clinic at Whiteman Air Force Base, and the Base Hospital, in observance of Doctor's Day, March 30.

Mrs. Charles Peterman reported that Linda Krager has been selected as the BPW sponsored Junior girl to attend Freedom Forum at Mexico Military Academy in June. Sharon Saults was named as alternate.

Mrs. McGuire, membership chairman for the past year, reported that eight new members have been added to the club during the past year. Mrs. John Carner, president, presented the president's pin to president-elect, Mrs. McGuire.

Mrs. Carner was then presented a gift from the club. She will leave soon to join her husband who is returning from a year's tour of duty in Alaska and will also be presented the past president's charm bracelet to wear during the coming year.

Door prizes were won by Miss Eleanor Gillum and Mrs. Earl Wampler; Mrs. Stevens was hostess; and tables were decorated with Barbie dolls, dressed to depict BPW members in their activities.

They may look like Christmas tree ornaments, but these gold "ion bulbs" actually wage electronic warfare on room odors and germs. Used in Puritron room purifiers and range hoods, they emit charged atoms that seek out electrons—in the form of germs and odors—and destroy them by absorption. ## Majority Expected To Attend

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Seventeen of the 20 acting nominees are expected to be present tonight for the 40th annual presentation of the Academy Awards.

Only Katharine Hepburn, Paul Newman and Spencer Tracy will be missing. Tracy, nominated a record nine times for best actor, would be the first to win an Oscar posthumously should he be picked over four others.

The annual event of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, which draws a glittering crowd of stars, was postponed Monday night for the first time in its long history in respect to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The show will be telecast on ABC at 10 EST with Bob Hope as master of ceremonies for the 14th time.

The major nominees:

Best picture—"Bonnie and Clyde," "Dr. Dolittle," "The Graduate," "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," "In the Heat of the Night."

Best actor—Warren Beatty, "Bonnie and Clyde;" Dustin Hoffman, "The Graduate;" Paul Newman, "Cool Hand Luke;" Rod Steiger, "In the Heat of the Night;" Spencer Tracy, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner."

Best actress—Anne Bancroft, "The Graduate;" Faye Dunaway, "Bonnie and Clyde;" Dame Edith Evans, "The Whisperers;" Audrey Hepburn, "Wait Until Dark;" Katharine Hepburn, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner."

Best supporting actor—Gene Hackman and Michael J. Pollard, "Bonnie and Clyde;" John Cassavetes, "The Dirty Dozen;" Cecil Kellaway, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner;" George Kennedy, "Cool Hand Luke."

Best supporting actress—Carol Channing, "Thoroughly Modern Millie;" Mildred Natwick, "Barefoot in the Park;" Estelle Parsons, "Bonnie and Clyde;" Beah Richards, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner;" Katharine Ross, "The Graduate."

Man Convicted In Bank Robbery Case

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury returned a conviction Tuesday against Calvin Fay Jackson, 22, in the $14,199 robbery of the Commercial State Bank at Bonner Springs, Kan., last Dec. 22.

Jackson, of Kansas City, Kan., had been on trial since Thursday. He and Earl Robinson, 18, of Kansas City, Mo., and two women were accused of planning the holdup. Robinson has pleaded guilty, and testified for the state.

Noted Ex-Sedalian Subject Of Feature Story in Journal

A feature story on Ethel Murray Simonds, who formerly lived in Sedalia where she started her career in the field of state fairs, appeared in the April issue of the Missionary Messenger, published by the Board of Missions of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. She was the great granddaughter of Finis Ewing, one of the three founders of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

She was married in 1916 to Dr. Wallace W. Simonds, a native Sedalian, who, at the time she married him, was a physician at Cross Timbers.

Born at Holden, Mo., on a

Tourist Invasion Has Faded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The usual vast springtime tourist invasion has become a trickle in the heat of racial violence in the nation's capital, leaving the city's leading industry reeling in what should have been its richest week of the year.

The cost is staggering, apparently running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars daily.

One sightseeing firm lists its losses at $8,000 a day. At a 1,000-room hotel, nearly three-fourths of the guests did not keep their reservations. High schools have called off class trips to the capital.

The full cost cannot be counted easily. Even the Washington Convention and Visitors Bureau was closed Tuesday along with most businesses in respect to assassinated civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The annual Cherry Blossom Festival this year came only a week before Easter, when thousands of pupils converge on the city during spring vacation.

But racial violence flared last Thursday night after the slaying of King in Memphis, Tenn., and the city came to a standstill beneath a pall of smoke from scores of burning buildings.

The few small conventions planned this week generally have been canceled but the Daughters of the American Revolution convention and the American Society of Newspaper Editors meeting remain on the agenda next week.

farm, she learned animal husbandry there. She came to Sedalia in about 1909, where she was connected with the Missouri State Fair. Her ability in fair work was noted by the late Tams Bixby, Muskogee, Okla., newspaper publisher, who persuaded her to manage the 1916 Muskogee fair.

Few women in the early part of the century were daring enough to take over a man's job, but, according to the article, "That old adage 'it can't be done' has been a lifetime challenge for Ethel Murray Simonds."

In 1919, when the Muskogee event became a state fair by act of the Oklahoma Legislature, she and her husband moved to Muskogee. She managed the fair there until 1926, when she moved to Tulsa. However in 1930 she returned to Muskogee where she was fair manager until the late 1940's.

Highlights of Ethel's fair career were that she was the first woman to be appointed secretary-manager of a state fair. She was the first and only woman appointed to the board of directors of the International Association of Fairs and Expositions, and the first woman president of the Middle West Fair Circuit. When she was fair manager, her husband was manager of the concessions department. Dr. Simonds' niece, Billie Norine Peabody, who also was born and raised in Sedalia at the Simonds old family home, Sixth and Engineer, spent part of the time each year in Oklahoma assisting with the fairs.

In 1938, Mrs. Simonds put on two fairs, one at Muskogee and one at Baton Rouge, La.

In Oklahoma the Simonds invested heavily in farmland. In 1930 they built the home in which she now lives, a 160-acre farm one mile west of Bixby. Her husband died in 1967.

After her retirement, still energetic, she helped with 4-H Club work, joined the Bixby Flower Guild and Tulsa Garden Center. When told Texas bluebonnets would not grow outside their native state, she responded to the challenge and planted all the seed she could buy, and each spring had an acre of bluebonnets.

The farm is also a bird sanctuary. Wild quail are plentiful and she has identified 41 species of birds at her home. Mrs. Simonds inherited a storehouse of antique furniture, most of it pre-Civil War period of highest quality. Her mother, Angeline Rice Murray, was the first white child born in Johnson County, Mi., and Ethel has a parchment land grant from President James Monroe given to her Missouri ancestors.

A hanging oil lamp in her home was in the first Missouri state capitol building at St. Charles. Dr. Simonds' brother, Jake Simonds, well known Sedalian who for many years was employed at Dorn Cloney Laundry, bought the old capitol building and lived in it.

The article in The Missionary Messenger was a reprint from The Tulsa World.

Many Things Make Life Worth All the Trouble

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living:

Children skipping rope to a chant their grandmothers knew when young. The healing of a wound and the falling off of an ugly scab. New hopes in a new spring. A line of daffodils making a yellow bonfire along a green hedge.

The sound of gospel singing in a weathered rural church. Old ladies with fat arms leaning on pillows in tenement windows to get a breath of April air and see what's stirring on the streets below. Colts frolicking before a wind rippling across an emerald pasture. The twilight sound of bells, ringing from far away.

Tossing a stone into a small lake at dusk and wondering if the spreading ripples will undulate forever. Consoling a sobbing baby after it falls down and hurts itself, or gets soap-suds in its eyes while taking a bath. Finding the paycheck unexpectedly larger by a few dollars, and deciding that maybe the boss isn't such a forgetful ogre after all.

Painting an old boat and planning on all the fish you'll catch from it come summer. The delicious ecstasy of taking a hot shower after a day-long hike through the woods.

The red thrill of the first strawberries of the season upon the breakfast plate. Hitting a 200-yard drive over a golf course water hazard, or seeing Mickey Mantle or Willie Mays jog around the base paths after lofting a long ball into the stands. Telling ghost stories to Boy Scouts making their first overnight hike. Putting in a garden and counting how many long weeks it will be until the tomatoes ripen, God and the bugs being willing.

Assuring a middle-aged wife you couldn't possibly love her

Former Cage Player Found Shot to Death

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP)—Lee Robbins, 43, a Billings businessman and former University of Colorado basketball player, was found dead of gunshot wounds in the head late Monday night near Logan Airfield in Billings.

Police Chief Richard Wilson said Tuesday night that a post mortem disclosed Robbins was shot twice in the head.

There was no identification on the body, police said, and the victim's pockets were turned inside out.

Robbins was a salesman for a pharmaceutical firm.

He was a member of the 1946-47 Colorado basketball squad. In 1946, the Buffaloes, not yet in the Big Eight Conference, went to the NCAA playoffs and lost in the first round to California, then beat Baylor third place. He also played one year with the professional New York Knickerbockers.

Survivors include the widow, Janet, and three children.

Choses an Odd Name

MILWAUKEE, Wis., (AP) — Timoteo Historia Moutino, 25-year-old native of Mozambique now studying at the Milwaukee School of Engineering, asked court approval to change his name.

He wants to be called Muzinga Rxcolocobangoxeb.

His attorney said Moutino wanted a name characteristic of his African heritage. A hearing was set for April 20.

Cards In Belated Baseball Opener

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
The St. Louis Cardinals' World Series line-up should be intact for their belated baseball opener tonight but the Los Angeles Dodgers will be starting a 1968 comeback drive without Manager Walter Alston.

Miserable Time For Buccaneers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The New Orleans Buccaneers strode into the den of the Dallas Chaparrals and, like everyone else, had a miserable time.

The Chaparrals, a team of homebodies, made the Bucs their 15th straight home court victim Tuesday night and evened their American Basketball League playoff series at 1-1.

Dallas fought off a desperate last period rally by New Orleans for a 112-109 victory in the best-of-7 Western Division final set, and the Buccaneers won't get out of Dallas until after tonight's third game.

Pittsburgh and Minnesota, also tied at 1-1, resume their Eastern Division final series tonight in Minnesota.

The National Basketball Association also begins play again tonight with Philadelphia at Boston and San Francisco at Los Angeles.

The Celtics will be trying to retain the home court advantage they gained last Friday by beating the defending champion 76ers in Philadelphia.

"Sometimes there is a tendency to let down at home, and if we let down tonight we are in trouble," said Boston captain John Havlicek before the second game of the best-of-7 Eastern Division final series.

Los Angeles also holds a 1-0 lead in their best-of-7 set for the Western Division playoff title.

Tennis Mules Split Over

The Central Missouri State College tennis team won its second meet in a row Friday before bowing to the University of Arkansas on Saturday.

Against John Brown University, Siloam Springs, Ark., Friday, CMSC won all but the number three singles and number one doubles matches in posting a 7-2 triumph.

On Saturday only Jim LaRue, number two singles, and Paul Williams, number four singles, won as CMSC lost 7-2.

LaRue has now won three matches in a row in number two singles play, and Williams has won four matches in a row at number five and four singles play.

Coach Duane Sterling was very satisfied with CMSC's three day southern tour which started with an 8-1 victory over Northeastern State College, Tahlequah, Okla., on Thursday.

The tennis mules now have a 2-4 record, and they will meet Kansas State Teachers College of Emporia, April 16, at Emporia, Kansas.

SC Golfers Drop Clinton Match

The Smith-Cotton High School "B" Golf Team lost a nine-hole match to Clinton Monday afternoon after one and a half hours of paired play, at the Meadow Lake Country Club in Clinton.

Two Sedalians did succeed in defeating their opponents as Ray Austin, S-C sophomore, won over Paul Barbee of Clinton with a score of 40-44, while senior Mike Richards defeated Clinton's Ronnie Dennis with a 48-50 score.

The "B" golf squad plays host to Warsaw Wednesday afternoon at Elm Hills Public Golf Course, while the varsity golf team travels to Jefferson City for a 3:30 p.m. match.

Atlanta takes on the world champion Cardinals at St. Louis, Philadelphia visits the Dodgers and Pittsburgh is at Houston in arclight games, completing a full season-opening slate after two days of postponements.

In National League daytime inaugurals—deferred until this afternoon in respect to the memory of Dr. Martin Luther King—the New York Mets were at San Francisco and the Chicago Cubs at Cincinnati.

Washington met Minnesota in the traditional presidential opener, with Vice President Humphrey expected to throw out the first ball as a replacement for work-laden President Johnson. Boston was at Detroit, Cleveland at Chicago, Oakland at Baltimore and California at New York in other American League opening games.

Roger Maris' recovery from a groin injury has virtually assured the Cardinals of beginning the season with the same cast

Shane Takes Match From Nature Boy

Bobby Shane, St. Louis, came through Tuesday night, and beat Nature Boy Kirby in their "death match to a finish." Shane, a loser to Nature Boy on two previous meetings, succeeded in working his opponent over to such an extent he was unable to return to the ring after being thrown through the ropes.

The two light heavy-weights battled for 11 minutes and 20 seconds. Kirby drop kicked Shane and then pressed him for the first fall. Shane came back and after the two men had crashed into each other, with Nature Boy getting the bad end of the crash, the boy from St. Louis succeeded in getting a reverse shoulder press to win in five minutes and 25 seconds.

During the rest between falls, Shane and Nature Boy got into it again and Nature Boy in some manner was thrown into the ropes and his head caught between the top and middle rope. It was a bad situation for Kirby and Shane took advantage of every offering and by the time the bell rang for the fall to begin Shane bounced Kirby out under the bottom rope and he fell to the floor. Referee Richard Moody awarded the match to Shane when Kirby was unable to return to the rope enclosure. Only one minute 40 seconds had ticked off the timekeepers watch.

The Bob Brown and Ronnie Etchison death match went 21 minutes and 20 seconds before Etchison was declared the winner when Brown was unable to continue the battle.

Brown took the opening fall in seven minutes and 40 seconds with a series of knee drops. Etchison won the second in 50 seconds with a pile driver and press; then Brown took the third in seven minutes and 55 seconds with a flying mare hold and press. Etchison won the fourth with the leg stretch in three minutes and 50 seconds. The final win came when Etchison bounced Brown off the mat and he couldn't return after he was counted out. It took two minutes and 46 seconds to end the match.

Sonny Myers, St. Joseph, and Pat O'Connor, New Zealand, had a draw in their one-fall 20-minute time limit event.

Steve Bolas, Ontario, Canada, was the winner over Mark Starr, Buffalo, N. Y., in 13 minutes of their one fall, 15-minute time limit match. Starr was disqualified by the referee.

Boxer Withdraws

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Featherweight boxer Sho Saijyo of Japan has withdrawn from Thursday night's scheduled 10-round bout with Jose Moreno of San Jose, Calif., because of a broken toe.

Saijyo reportedly stumbled over a lawn sprinkler.

that took the final game of the 1967 Series from the Red Sox. Maris will bat in the No. 3 spot, ahead of National League MVP Orlando Cepeda, as the Cards open with bullet Bob Gibson opposing the Braves' Pat Jarvis.

Alston, 56-year-old dean of major league managers, underwent successful surgery Tuesday night for removal of kidney stones. He's expected to be missing from the dugout for the first three weeks of his 15th season as the Dodgers' skipper. Coaches Jim Gilliam, Preston Gomez, Danny Ozark and Lefty Phillips will direct the club in Alston's absence.

The Dodgers reset their opener from Tuesday night after Philadelphia announced it would forfeit the game rather than play on the date of Dr. King's funeral.

The Senators-Twins opener, also pushed back from Monday in the wake of racial disturbances in the nation's capitol, pitted Washington's Camilo Pascual against Dean Chance of Minnesota in a right-handers' battle.

Minnesota, one of the preseason AL favorites, and the Senators, eyeing a first division finish under new skipper Jim Lemon, met in D.C. Stadium, where federal troops on riot control duty were headquartered Tuesday.

At Baltimore, another city disrupted by violence after the assassination of Dr. King, young Tom Phoebus pitched for the Orioles against Oakland's Catfish Hunter. Baltimore started the season without pitcher Pete Richert and shortstop Mark Belanger, who were called up by the National Guard because of the racial unrest.

Jim Koerner To Announce For KC Spurs

KCJC Radio of Kansas City, today announced that Sedalian Jim Koerner will join the staff to do the sports casting of the Kansas City Professional Soccer team, the Spurs.

Koerner will be at the microphone in Sunday's opener, matching the K.C. Spurs against the Houston Stars.

Sports Director Bill Beck and injured Spur player Dan O'Connor will round out the broadcasting team that will serve as the originating station for some 20 league games of the Spurs.

Koerner presently is on the faculty of Sacred Heart High School here in Sedalia and will continue his teaching assignment as well as serving as Gremlin Track Coach.

He is a member of the local Khoury Soccer Board, and served as coach for the Sedalia Kickers and tournament director for the Sedalia Junior Soccer Cup Tournament, which the Sedalia Kickers won in this year's inaugural competition.

Cindermen To Meet Clinton Thursday

Smith-Cotton's Varsity Cindermen take on Clinton's "A" and "B" squads Thursday at 3:45 p.m. in Clinton.

Earlier this season the Bengal tracksters downed the Cardinals 60-58. The Sedalia sprinters will retain last week's starters in hopes of capturing their second dual meet this year.

Coach Fred Long pointed out that this year's young squad, nearly devoid of seniors, had done well against tough competition.

Meeting For Khoury League Scheduled

A board meeting for the Sedalia Khoury Girls Softball Association will be held at the North Highway 65 Cafe, Thursday night, April 11th, at 7:30 p.m.

All board members and managers are urged to attend this meeting as plans for the coming season are to be discussed.

What Masters Means to Stars

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK—(NEA)—To a basketball player, it's playing in Madison Square Garden. To a baseball player, it's the World Series. To a football player, it's a Bowl Game. And to a golfer, it's the Masters at the Augusta National Golf Club.

Following are excerpts from letters by some of golf's greatest stars written to Tournament Chairman Clifford Roberts and Club President Bobby Jones. What they said in the past is equally pertinent on the eve of the 1968 Masters:

Byron Nelson, winner in 1942 (Jan. 1, 1946): "It seems the Masters always produces something unusual. . . . Sarazen's double eagle and many other notable highlights. I made my principal contribution to the Augusta Record Book in 1942. At least it was the best golf, all things considered, of my career. I refer, of course, to the stretch of golf I played during the play-off with Ben Hogan, beginning with the 6th hole and ending with the 17th."

Ben Hogan, two-time winner (Jan. 12, 1954): "Today I received my invitation to the 1954 Masters Tournament. . . . It brings back memories of the time I received my first invitation back in 1938. Prior to that year I remember hoping and praying that my game and record would qualify me for this much-prized invitation. This same thought is going through the minds of many young golfers today and I know exactly how they feel. For you see, now 16 years later, I still experience the same thrill of pride when my invitation arrives. . . . The Augusta National is one of the few courses that can give me real pleasure in playing the day after the tournament ends."

Sam Snead, three-time winner (Jan. 2, 1956): "I know as well as anybody that there is always a lot of pressure in a Masters Tournament but, making full allowance for the tension, this is by far the most enjoyable competition in big-time golf. . . . The Augusta National is a tourney that a fellow enjoys playing even when Ole Man Par is giving you a going over."

Arnold Palmer, four-time winner (Jan. 10, 1961): "It is extremely difficult, if not impossible, for me to put into words what I feel about the Masters Tournament and the Augusta National Golf Course. I can recall that as a young boy, prior to attending Wake Forest College, the Masters was something I read about in the papers, and it was my burning ambition to some day be able to play the great course, particularly as a participant in the tournament."

"One incident in particular stands out in my memory. The Wake Forest golf team was scheduled to play a spring match in Georgia. In an effort to get to the Masters, we offered our services to officials in charge. Unfortunately for us, arrangements had already been made, and our offer was turned down. To say that we were disappointed would be a mild understatement."

Gary Player, winner in 1961 (April 18, 1961): "As you know, I made a special trip from Johannesburg (South Africa) five years ago to respond to my first invitation to play in the Masters. . . . In my travels I have visited practically every country in the world where the game of golf is played. I can assure you that the Masters Tournament everywhere serves as an inspiration to young golfers."

Jack Nicklaus, three-time winner (April 20, 1965): "Playing in the Masters was a lifelong ambition and a thrill in itself. When I won it the first time (1963), I thought that it would be the biggest thrill I would ever have. However, my win this year has surpassed all my thrills in golf."

Augusta National is my favorite course and the Masters my favorite golf tournament. I feel the Masters is a monument to everything great in golf."

Somber Air Surrounds Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A somber, restrained air surrounds the opening of the 32nd Masters Golf Tournament Thursday, with Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, as usual, ranking favorites.

Neither of the giants of the game was especially pleased with his game, however, while defending champion Gary Brewer was downright dismayed.

"I just can't putt," said Brewer, who hasn't won since taking the 1967 title. "The rest of my game is good enough, I suppose, but I just can't sink a putt. I can't seem to get my mind on it."

Palmer and Nicklaus had their chronic complaints. Palmer said he couldn't putt. Nicklaus said he couldn't drive.

Despite their troubles, they've won seven of the last 10 Masters, and easily rank as the men to beat in the relatively small field of 76 of the world's best.

But even their magic presence on the lushly green Augusta National Course Tuesday—both were late arrivals—failed to generate the excitement usually connected with this, the first of the world's four major tournaments.

The crowds for the practice rounds were small and subdued. Palmer, amazingly, walked through a crowd unnoticed when he first reached the course.

Both Palmer and Nicklaus admittedly are pointing for this Masters. Each feels he needs it.

Nicklaus, the 210-pound Ohio strongboy who has won all the world's major titles, practically owned the Masters crown until he fell apart last year and failed to make the cut. He had won three of the four previous Masters and set the scoring record. Palmer, the only four time winner, feels he is overdue.

Among the other favorites are Billy Casper, two-time U.S. Open champion and winner of last week's rain-delayed Greensboro Open; flashy Doug Sanders, and England's Tony Jacklin, a 23-year-old who won the Jacksonville Open.

The final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by CBS. The Saturday telecast will start at 3:30 p.m., EST. Sunday's round will be shown 4:50 p.m., EST.

Johnson Not Making Big Pitch

NEW YORK (AP) — Laughing At Sports:

President Johnson was not expected to throw out the first ball at the Washington Senators' opener. He said on television 10 days ago he wouldn't make the big pitch this year.

By the time the postseason Stanley Cup hockey games are over, the players are liable to be all puckered out.

The first computerized scoreboard is being installed by the Oakland Athletics. IBM can now stand for Instant Baseball Messages.

How will the computer scoreboard work, though, after the A's are mathematically eliminated?

A woman was named the golf pro at a South Carolina country club. An addition was made to its gallery.

The girls at Nashville Business College won the National AAU basketball title for the seventh straight year. They reverted to type.

St. Louis and Detroit are favored to win the baseball pennants. The experts predicted they'll be tough to give down.

The Giants are given a good chance of finishing first in the National League if Marichal has Juan of his greatest seasons.

Joe Namath is concerned. He heard that the New York Jets will play more games under the lights next season. . . . and they're not one of the better night clubs.

Sports World Ends Tribute To King

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The sports world ended its three-day tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King today. Race tracks reopened, the major league baseball season started and numerous other scattered events resumed.

Pro hockey and pro basketball playoffs, halted for two days, resumed Tuesday night along with Yonkers, N.Y., Raceway and Liberty Bell in Philadelphia.

Ten baseball openers, seven in the afternoon and three tonight, were scheduled, but Baltimore postponed its Thursday night game against Oakland because of racial disturbances in Baltimore.

K-State Takes Southern Methodist

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Kansas State beat Southern Methodist 93-43 in a dual track meet Tuesday, winning 11 of the 16 events.

Charles Collins and Mack Heron of K-State were 1-2 in the 100-yard dash, each in 9.3. Kansas State won the 440 relay in 41.0 and the mile relay in 3:16.4.

Jerry Utecht of Southern Methodist won the high hurdles in 14.1 and the 440 hurdles in 52.6. Bruce Cameron of SMU took the 220 race in 21.3 and Mike Madigan won the broad jump with 23 feet 2 inches.

California Wins Quadrangle Meet

California hosted Camdenton, Versailles and Osage in a track meet Tuesday and won the meet with a score of 85½. The other teams scored, Camdenton, 47½, Versailles, 44, and Osage, 16.

High point scorer was Kent Sullins for California with 20 points. He won the low hurdles and the high jump.

California's next meet will be at the Lincoln Relays.

Here's How to Remove Moldy Taste From Syrup

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I imagine Erna, who has the syrup with a moldy taste, means maple syrup. Put syrup in a pot large enough so it will not boil over. Bring to a boil and simmer for about 10 minutes. Spoon off the scum that forms on top. Cool and use and you will find the moldy taste has gone.—H. E. P.

DEAR POLLY—Erna should bring her syrup to a boil in a large kettle and boil for about three minutes. Drop in the white of an egg and bring to a boil again. All the mold and impurities will rise to the top and she can skim it off with a metal spoon.—MRS. D. A.

DEAR POLLY—Tell Erna that she should keep her syrup, after the bottle has once been opened, in the refrigerator to keep mold from forming.—DONNA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Can anyone give me a remedy for floors that are badly marred, scratched and shrunken so that the boards do not meet?—CLARA

DEAR POLLY—My mother is a nurse and she always drops a marble into her bottle of white shoe polish. Since white polish tends to settle to the bottom, this breaks it up very well when shaken before use. A small, clean stone would work just as well as a marble.—AVA

DEAR POLLY—When sewing insignia on Boy Scout or other uniform pockets, cut a piece of cardboard to fit inside the pocket and then there is no danger of sewing through to the shirt itself.—DALE

DEAR POLLY—When roasting marshmallows, first dip the fork or stick into butter or margarine. The marshmallows will not stick or lose their shape when removed.—AGNES

DEAR POLLY—I travel with my evangelist husband. I hang my dresses, at the waistline, over the bar of a hanger and they fit in a man's suit carrier, which is much easier to handle and hang in the car. Dresses do not need pressing before wearing.—MRS. K.

Baeza: Timing Is Money

By TOMMY THOMAS
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — It was moments after the race was over and Great Power was moving slowly around the clubhouse turn at Aqueduct. Suddenly the horse threw his head back, striking the jockey in the face. Great Power dropped to the ground, dead of heart failure.

The jockey, for the past three years the top money-winning rider, sprawled to the ground and lay motionless for several minutes before an ambulance carried him off.

Braulio Baeza made a quick recovery, however, perhaps because he's accustomed to the spills of life. The 27-year-old Panamanian left school "at the age of 14 or 15 to get a license to ride." It was then Baeza learned to control horses . . . and himself.

"In Panama," he remembers, "there was no film patrol. The races are not regulated like they are here, so you have to protect yourself. There was only one track there, so you couldn't go to another if you got discouraged. I had to drive myself to make good. I was always fighting in Panama . . . my temper cost me many races."

Braulio Baeza

Baeza's outstanding quality is described by one expert as "a computerized sense of pace with its coldly calculated late runs."

It is this knack for timing that has enabled Braulio to win every major stakes race in the nation in the past five years.

Baeza likes to keep his mounts on the rail, even when he feels he's on the best horse in the race.

"A horse that is running strongly will keep a straight course," he says. "When the horse starts to tire he will then lug in or out. Usually, I just have to be patient and a hole will develop."

Baeza says his good sense of timing is a combination of many things: "The condition of the other horses, the condition of your own mount and confidence in your own judgment."

Since he began riding in the United States in 1960, Baeza has captured many triumphant moments. Among them are the 1963 victories in the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont Stakes aboard Chateaugay. Another was guiding Buckpasser to the first million dollars ever won by a three-year-old. Baeza has also won the George Woolf Jockey Award for his outstanding career.

It's no wonder that his countrymen and American racing fans alike regard Braulio Baeza as "El Numero Uno."

Bart Starr Teaming Up With Bears

WASHINGTON (AP) — Green Bay's Bart Starr is teaming up with the Bears.

Not the arch enemy Chicago Bears, but their fuzzy four-footed forerunners.

Starr's guest appearance this month in a television series built around a boy and his bear is all a part of the second season of a pro football quarter-back.

This January-through-June second season can mean as much work, more travel and perhaps even more money than the first—if the first was successful.

Baltimore's Johnny Unitas, the NFL Player-of-the-Year, has flown from New York to California to Florida in the last three months, making paid personal appearances. Last Thursday night he was back in Baltimore to open his plush new suburban restaurant, the Golden Arm.

Starr, the impeccable Packer quarterback who guided Green Bay to an unprecedented third straight NFL title, criss-crosses the country in promoting soft drinks, sporting goods and cars.

Washington's Sonny Jurgensen, who shattered NFL season records for passing yardage and completions last fall, spends his off-season in business investments, buying property and building what he calls "tax shelters."

Each is reluctant to say how much extra income is involved in the second season, but Starr volunteers, "I'm happy with the arrangement."

Starr is in the first year of a five-year contract with a soft drink bottling company. Unitas makes two-day appearances before schools and youth groups in various cities as a fashion representative for a large chain store. In recent weeks he has traveled to Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Florida, Missouri, Louisiana and California.

Starr will fly to Florida to start filming an appearance on the television show, Gentle Ben.

To Defend Title

LONDON (AP) — World featherweight champion Howard Winstone of Wales said today he will defend his title against Spain's Jose Legra in June or July and may then fight American Raul Rojas in Los Angeles.

Rojas, of San Pedro, Calif., is recognized as champion in the United States by the World Boxing Association.

Winstone, 28, survived a knock-down in the first round by British junior lightweight champion Jimmy Anderson to win a 10-round decision at London's indoor Wembley Stadium Tuesday night.

"It was a tough fight, now I'm ready to meet Legra," Winstone told newsmen.

Winstone lacked a lot of his old speed and took some hard punches from Anderson. The fight was made at 132 pounds, six pounds over the featherweight limit. No title was involved.

In Good Condition

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Walter Alston, 56-year-old baseball manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers, is reported in good condition today after undergoing surgery for removal of a kidney stone.

Dr. David Lester performed the surgery Tuesday night and a spokesman at Daniel Freeman Hospital said the date of Alston's release from the hospital depended on his recovery.

The 15-year Dodger manager was expected to be out in about three weeks.

The Dodgers open the National League season tonight against Philadelphia in Dodger Stadium. The squad will be directed by the coaching staff including Jim Gilliam, Preston Gomez, Danny Ozark and Lefty Phillips.

Drops Cage Team

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Phillips Petroleum Co. announced Tuesday it is dropping its amateur basketball team, the Phillips Oilers, after nearly 50 years of existence.

Have Boston

In A Hole

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Montreal Canadiens have

Boston in an awfully deep hole.

The New York Rangers, who know what it's like down there, are trying to dig one just like it for the Chicago Black Hawks.

Montreal dropped Boston to the brink of elimination in the National Hockey League's best-of-7 East Division playoffs with their third straight victory over the Bruins, 5-2 Tuesday night.

The Rangers, meanwhile, who were eliminated in four straight games by the Canadiens last year, whipped Chicago 2-1 for their second straight victory

Wary Confidence On Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—House backers of a state-passed civil rights-open housing bill express wary confidence that the controversial measure will be sent to President Johnson before the Easter recess starts Thursday. Two major steps must be taken first. The initial move was a vote scheduled for today by the House Rules Committee, which last month refused to give immediate clearance for a House showdown on the bill.

Even opponents of the bill in its present form voice doubt they can further delay a decision. They lost one of their followers over the weekend when

Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, one of the five Republican Rules Committee members, switched his position. Anderson was on the winning side of the 8-7 committee vote last month that slowed down the bill's progress.

This provision would bar discrimination in the sale or rental of about 80 per cent of the nation's housing.

Whether the assassination last week of Negro leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the subsequent violence in big cities—including rioting near Capitol Hill itself—helped or hurt the bill's chances was debatable.

No Early Cure for Violence

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield forecasts no early Capitol Hill cure for problems reflected by the violence that has wracked the nation in recent days.

Mansfield said in an interview he'll push a post-Easter drive to pass legislation aimed at meeting major social problems. But he conceded it is unlikely to reach the roots of ferment that exploded into violence after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

He listed for early action a so-called "safe streets" bill, a juvenile delinquency measure and legislation to give the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission power to enforce its orders.

Mansfield voiced hope the House will act this week on a Senate-passed civil rights bill, which includes an open-housing provision.

But beyond that he said he thinks it will be wise to have members of Congress test reaction back home in a week's Easter recess beginning Thursday before acting on any new proposals that may be aimed at the core of discontent in city slums.

Mansfield urged his colleagues Monday not to act impetuously in the aftermath of King's murder. He said greater responsibility by individual citizens, rather than new legislation, is "vitally necessary to regain our self-respect."

Mansfield said President Johnson, in discussions with congressional leaders, had not outlined any legislative proposals he might make.

Mansfield was noncommittal about when the Senate will act on a supplementary money bill from which a Senate-House conference committee deleted $100 million for summer poverty programs.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said in a statement he will oppose final approval of the bill unless the funds are restored.

The "safe streets" bill would provide for federal grants to improve state and local police forces, curb handgun sales, authorize wiretapping by law enforcement officers under court orders and remove Supreme Court restrictions on police questioning of criminal suspects.

A Senate Labor subcommittee has approved legislation authorizing a 250 million outlay over the next four years to revive a program of prevention and rehabilitation among juvenile delinquents.

The administration has been unable to pry out of the Labor

Committee a measure to give the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission power to enforce its orders against job discrimination.

Business leaders have contended this would put the federal government in a position to tell them who to hire.

Although national labor leaders support the measure, many individual unions oppose it on the ground it would open their membership rolls to persons they regard as unqualified.

Big Increase In Car Sales Is Anticipated

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Automobile salesmen and dealers throughout America are talking up a real spurt in car sales. The increase began early in the first quarter of the year, but took off in the final 10 days of March.

The figures exceed even the estimates of many of the industry's positive thinking forecasters.

First quarter sales of the nation's Big Four automakers totaled more than two million cars despite a sluggish start.

In the March 21-31 period alone, the combined sales of General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors were more than 322,000 cars a pace that has been bettered only in 1965 and 1966.

In this 10-day period Americans bought 36,000 cars more than in the same period a year earlier, or about 3,600 cars more a day—this in spite of domestic and international turmoil.

True, some peculiarities must be explained.

Ford, still rebounding from a strike, is providing cars now for many customers who couldn't buy them earlier. And sales incentive contests this year may have added to the bulge.

Still, the spring sales pace of 1968 stands close to the best, exceeded only by 1966 and 1965 when 2.2 million cars were sold in the first quarter. But, when increased purchases of foreign cars are included, Americans are found to be buying at a pace very close to the record.

Consider the situation just a couple of years ago. Sales were booming and manufacturers were projecting sales of cars and trucks of about 10.6 million. Henry Ford II foresaw sales in excess of 13 million by 1970. Confidence abounded.

Everything seemed to go sour at once. Safety, an issue that car makers had long pursued—but perhaps dutifully and sometimes ploddingly—suddenly was on everyone's mind. Inflation spread through the economy. Consumer confidence began drying up in the heat of domestic and world tensions.

Car sales slumped beneath estimates. Millions of cars were found to have defects, mostly minor. American Motors got into serious financial trouble.

Some of these problems still remain. In fact, imported cars are taking an increasingly larger share of the market, apparently because Detroit has failed to come up with suitable small competitors.

American Motors is still in serious financial trouble, but even this critical situation has improved a bit with the return of American to profitability in the final quarter of 1967.

Confidence also seems to be returning to the auto buying public, although it seems to be a conditional thing that is not reflected in opinion surveys and which could be upset by a large dose of bad news.

Man Burns to Death In Gas Truck Mishap

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Mo. (AP) — A gasoline tank truck went over an embankment and exploded into flame, burning to death its driver Tuesday on Missouri 17 about five miles north of Mountain View.

The victim was identified as Charles Gilbert, 27, a driver for Grey Lines of St. Louis. Gilbert crawled away from the wreckage, but the flaming gasoline enveloped him.

Ten acres of woodland was burned off by the fire.

Dies in Car Wreck

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Marine 2nd Lt. Carol Ann Wilkins, 22, of Neosho, Mo., was killed Tuesday when her car hit a curb and overturned. She was stationed at the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station near Santa Ana, Calif.

Sedalian Vital Cog in Air Team

Tunes Up Engine

William Pangburn, aviation machinist mate first class, right, works on the engine of the lone plane assigned to the Naval Support Activity in Danang, South Vietnam. Pangburn, a native Sedalian, heads up the Air Operations Division.

DANANG, SOUTH VIETNAM — Eighteen sailors from the Naval Support Activity here spend much of their time in the air, flying a one plane air transport service over Vietnam. The crew flies a 16-year-old C-117 rebuilt from a C-47, ferrying people and supplies to remote outposts along the DMZ and in I Corps (the five northernmost provinces of South Vietnam).

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 200,000 telephone workers in the AFL-CIO Communications Workers Union have postponed their strike deadline a week—to April 18—because of weekend rioting in several cities.

The strike deadline originally was next Friday. Union President Joseph A. Beirne called on the Bell Telephone System to reach a contract agreement before the new date.

"In these extraordinary days of unleashed emotions and abnormal events," Beirne said of the postponement Monday, "we of the Communications Workers of America do not wish to add to the turbulence."

The dispute over wages involves 23,000 Western Electric Co. telephone installers across the nation and Bell System workers in Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Michigan, Idaho, Indiana, parts of California and Nevada, and the state of Washington.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of Republican backers is reported considering creation of a national committee to draft New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the GOP presidential nomination.

"What is being done is being done with the knowledge and consent of the governor," Republican sources said Monday.

Rockefeller has said he will not actively seek the Republican nomination but will speak on the issues and would accept a draft.

the son of Mrs. Mary Pangburn of 318 East 14th, Sedalia.

"There are two crews," said Pangburn, "that means that we're in the air just about every other day."

"When we're not flying," the 12-year veteran air crewman continued, "we're working on the plane. It's a big job keeping the bird in the air all the time. We work about one-and-a-half hours on the ground for every hour we're in the air."

The C-117, which logs better than 120 hours of flying time a month, is on constant call. It takes admirals and generals on tours of combat zones, ferries Vietnamese refugees to secured areas and rushes emergency supplies of blood and medical to outlying aid stations.

The crew, which makes three to five trips to Dong Ha along the DMZ every week, also transports explosive ordnance and underwater demolition teams to trouble spots.

Although the NSA bird flies no combat missions, it has been hit by enemy ground fire on a number of trips, usually on take-offs and landings.

Hughes To Help With Strategy

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has hired Emmet John Hughes, the writer and political strategist, and three other advisers to help him formulate positions on national and international issues.

The move announced in a statement Tuesday was viewed by many political observers as accentuating Rockefeller's availability for the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller announced March 21 that he would not be an active candidate for the GOP nomination but said that he would accept a draft if one developed and meanwhile would speak out on the issues.

In the statement issued by his office, the governor said he is preparing to state his policies on foreign and domestic problems confronting the United States.

In addition to Hughes, those named to advise him were Henry Kissinger of Harvard University, Richard Nathan of the Brookings Institute and Oscar Reubhausen, a New York City lawyer.

A staff member said Rockefeller would discuss either the Vietnam war or the racial crisis in the cities in "a major speech" being prepared for his appearance before the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington April 18.

Hughes, who was a member of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's staff in 1952, 1953 and 1956, was named Rockefeller's "special assistant" to aid in the "broad work of formulating and discussing policies and programs in the months ahead."

See US Dream Fading

LONDON (AP) — America started with a dream, "and the dream is shading now into nightmare," says London's Sunday Times.

"America is the land where an idea of unprecedented ambition and grandeur took shape. This is the country which undertook to let all races mingle, all faiths be free, all laws be just, all men be equal," the editorial said.

But, it added, "the horror of Vietnam ... has soured the dream as no crisis before in the nation's history; and at home unthinkable poverty rots on the edge of unimaginable wealth.

"The people, once pledged to everlasting brotherhood, fight pitched battles, race against race in the city streets."

An Associated Press survey on foreign comment also brought out this report on America's mood by Eldon Griffiths, a Conservative member of Parliament who once worked as a journalist in America: "There is rising a new and disturbing variety of isolationism. The best label I can find for it is 'continentalism.'"

"This is altogether a more subtle and complex phenomenon than the old-fashioned Americanism of the 1930s. Today's continentalism is based more on America's frustrations than on xenophobia; more on a felt need to reduce overseas obligations than on one to avoid all foreign entanglements.

"Vietnam is the biggest reason. The American public is plainly sickened, not only by the casualties ... and the staggering cost ... but by a mounting presentiment that the war is futile and unwinnable."

The Tokyo newspaper Asahi dwelt on President Johnson's Texas background and added: "Differing from the jovial and innocent tall stories of Texans, the gap between reality and President Johnson's recent 'special statement' is grave.

"After he stated that the area in which bombing would be permitted would be restricted to the area north of the demilitarized zone, the whole world was dumfounded to learn that this included an area up to 330 kilometers (200 miles) north of the DMZ.

"It couldn't be that President Johnson thought it was Texas, so that his 'just a little north' became 330 kilometers?"

Detroit's People Hungry for News

DETROIT (AP) — For nearly five months the two million residents of the Detroit area have had to depend on radio and television and a scant supply of newspapers from outside the city for their news.

Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, feels these sources don't sufficiently fill the void created by the 147-day shutdown of the city's two major daily papers.

A spot check showed other residents agree.

The mayor felt the lack of papers caused such a flurry of rumors about impending racial strife that he went on television earlier this year to announce a special telephone center to help quell rumors and to urge Detroiters to stop buying guns.

Martin Luther King Jr. caused a brief outbreak in the heavily Negro 12th Street area and prompted a mobilization of the National Guard, Cavanagh made a special appeal to the publishers and unions involved in the strike to resume publication to ease racial tensions.

The publishers responded by saying they were ready to supply "ground rules." Cavanagh requested leading to a possible resumption of publication, but the Council of Newspaper Unions refused to go along. They urged, instead, around-the-clock bargaining sessions.

The afternoon Detroit News was shut down by a Teamsters Union strike last Nov. 16 and the morning Free Press closed the next day, saying it negotiated some contracts jointly with the News. The Teamsters have since settled with the two papers, but four other unions are now on strike.

A labor mediator, Prof. Nathan P. Feinsinger, was brought in March 23 to help move the sides toward settlement. Cavanagh says that since then there has been some progress in bargaining on noneconomic matters but little movement on money issues.

A resident of suburban Birmingham, Ann Squires, said she tries "to catch every radio and television news show available when I'm home."

"Most of my life," Miss Squires added, "I've enjoyed that morning paper, and when you don't get it you feel like your morning is shot."

Humphrey to Enter Race After Easter

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will plunge into the race for the Democratic presidential nomination immediately after Easter.

The vice president now assesses his chances in a three-way contest with Sens. Robert S. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., as "looking good."

He has told friends he is more encouraged to make the race than he has to ever been to run for office in his political life.

The Humphrey campaign, once it is launched, will be aimed at the heart of nomination strength—the state conventions in which the majority of convention delegates are chosen.

The vice president has neither the money nor the inclination to go into presidential primaries. In line with this he instructed his friends not to enter a delegate slate for him even in his native South Dakota.

Delegate lists for Kennedy and McCarthy are being organized for the June 4 primary there. But Rod Barnes, organizer of a South Dakota drive for Humphrey, said in Huron Tuesday he had been told not to enter any slate for the Vice President.

Humphrey is personally convinced he will have strong support from organized labor and the business community. This has been indicated in about 4,000 messages urging him to run after President Johnson's announcement that he would not accept renomination.

The vice president feels he will have strong support in the South, which was lining up to back Johnson before the President said he would not run.

Although Johnson himself has offered no active political support, many of the President's backers are pledging help to Humphrey.

The vice president thinks the refusal of some of Johnson's mainstays, such as Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey and Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, to make any commitments to candidates after the President's withdrawal is all to the good, so far as he is concerned.

As the lone active contender for the nomination who has supported Johnson's Vietnam policies, Humphrey intends to be guided in campaigning on that issue by developments in the President's attempts to get negotiations going with the Communists.

His friends think any progress toward peace will benefit the vice president more than either Kennedy or McCarthy, who have been critical of Johnson's course.

Humphrey concedes that at this point he doesn't have the money necessary for a national campaign for the nomination. But he expects it to begin coming in after his formal announcement.

The Humphrey campaign organization, being put together hastily, now is headed by Kenneth Burkhead, formerly with the Agriculture Department, as executive director.

Nominees Will Be On Hand

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — This is Oscar night, and the movie industry hopes to present a shining image to the millions of television viewers who will be watching Hollywood's annual ritual.

Not in many years has so much civic effort been exerted to present the Academy Awards in an atmosphere of dignity and excitement. The plethora of no-shows that marred last year's event—only one of the acting winners was present—appears to have been avoided. The academy proudly predicts that 17 acting nominees will be in the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium for the awards.

The only acting nominees who won't be in the Oscar audience are Katharine Hepburn, who is making a film in France, and Paul Newman, who offered the eyebrow-raising excuse that he is in the East editing the film he directed last year. Mrs. Spencer Tracy will accept the Oscar if her late husband should win.

This is Oscar's 40th anniversary, and the event will be marked by a special film saluting the four decades of academy winners. Such oldtime favorites as Marie Dressler, Charles Laughton, Ronald Colman, Humphrey Bogart, George Arliss, Gary Cooper and Paul Muni will be seen in their award performances. The four segments are narrated by Katharine Hepburn, Olivia de Havilland, Grace Kelly and Anne Bancroft.

No production numbers are planned, but nominated songs will get an airing with the talents of Shirley Jones, Louis Armstrong, Lanei Kazan, Angela Lansbury and Sergio Mendes and Brazil 66.

The telecast (ABC—10 p.m. EST) has been tentatively scheduled for two hours, but it remains open-end in case of overtime. If past performance is any criterion, it will run overtime. But Bob Hope, emcee for the 14th time, is expected to keep things rolling.

The major nominees: Best picture—"Bonnie and Clyde," "Dr. Doolittle," "The Graduate," "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," "In the Heat of the Night."

Best actor—Warren Beatty, "Bonnie and Clyde"; Dustin Hoffman, "The Graduate"; Paul Newman, "Cool Hand Luke"; Rod Taylor, "In the Heat of the Night"; Spencer Tracy, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner."

Best actress—Anne Bancroft, "The Graduate"; Faye Dunaway, "Bonnie and Clyde"; Dame Edith Evans, "The Whisperers"; Audrey Hepburn, "Wait Until Dark"; Katharine Hepburn, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner."

Best supporting actor—Gene Hackman and Michael J. Pollard, "Bonnie and Clyde"; John Cassavetes, "The Dirty Dozen"; Cecil Kellaway, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner"; George Kennedy, "Cool Hand Luke."

Best supporting actress—Carol Channing, "Thoroughly Modern Millie"; Mildred Natwick, "Barefoot in the Park"; Estelle Parsons, "Bonnie and Clyde"; Beah Richards, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner"; Katharine Ross, "The Graduate."

YOUNG LOOK is achieved by Ethel Kennedy, who wears short skirt and patterned hose while attending university speech given by her husband, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — A Chilean DC3 airliner crashed into a remote mountainside in poor weather Monday night, killing all 36 Chileans aboard. Air force officials said it might have been caught in a downdraft.

The Ladeco Airlines plane was en route from Santiago and crashed about 15 miles short of its destination, Coihaique, in south-central Chile.

KUWAIT (AP) — More than 90 persons drowned when a ship carrying 400 Pakistanis home from a pilgrimage to Mecca struck a sandbar and sank Friday near Dubai, in the Persian Gulf, reports reaching Kuwait today said.

Reports in Karachi, Pakistan, said the vessel carried 500 Pakistanis and 200 were believed missing.

The reports in Kuwait said more than 70 of the dead were women and children and that survivors claimed the ship—a dhow, or Arab sailing vessel—was overloaded. They said the cargo broke loose in a heavy sea and crushed passengers.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Roman Catholic Church officials today defended militant Brazilian students who clashed with police last week. A statement from the Metropolitan Curia of Rio de Janeiro said the students were "spokesman for the suffering of the people."

It added that student unrest results from "dissatisfaction of the student class due to intolerance and lack of dialogue with government authorities."

The demonstrations and clashes came in response to the death of a high school student from police gunfire. Clergymen said memorial Masses for the youth this week and after one Mass shielded students from mounted policemen who had charged them with sabres earlier.

Mutual Escalation Noted

William C. Baggs, editor of the Miami News, has made a second trip to North Vietnam. His first visit was in January, 1967. On both trips he was accompanied by Harry Ashmore, former editor of the Arkansas Gazette and now executive vice president of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions.

HANOI, North Vietnam (Delayed) (AP) — The first impression acquired by a reporter returning to Hanoi 14 months later is that a kind of mutual escalation prevails over this war in North Vietnam.

In Hanoi almost incidentally, but conspicuously in the countryside, you see the violent wake of the American bombers. The damage from aerial bombardment is much greater than when this writer visited North Vietnam in January, 1967.

However, as the air raids have proliferated, the North Vietnamese have "escalated" their defenses and their competence to survive a more intense war from the air.

The Hanoi area, for instance, must be nested in one of the most sophisticated and effective warning systems in the world. Through the metallic voices of the hundreds of loudspeakers across the city, the people are alerted when U.S. planes are headed toward Hanoi. The warning may be repeated two or three times as the planes approach. The siren is sounded when the bombers are within 19 to 25 miles of Hanoi, and at this signal the people hustle to the thousands of shelters here.

The efficiency of the warning system may be measured by the fact that American aircraft flew over or near Hanoi eleven (11) times over this reporter's first weekend in the city. (March 29, 30, 31) Bombs were dropped (not in the city but in the suburbs) on several occasions and only once was there not enough time given the people to hot foot it to a shelter. The exception was when a reconnaissance plane sneaked through the radar web and was in the city's air space before it was discovered.

The plane had not crossed over Hanoi before the anti-aircraft made its ugly, staccato announcement, and you could hear the busy reports of groundfire from southwest of the city, out beyond Hanoi to the east, along the banks of the Red River.

A little more than a year ago, the rolling stock in Vietnam appeared to be the ragged items of an impoverished motor pool. The trucks were old, usually small, and frequently you saw them stalled or expired along the road ways of the country.

Now it is apparent that North Vietnam has invested much of its line of credit with the countries of the Soviet Union and what they call their "socialist compatriots" in eastern Europe for rolling stock. The return is in large trucks, some in the region of two and a half tons, and they are new and well kept.

On the road which leads to the port of Haiphong, this writer counted 157 of these large trucks and then gave up the arithmetic. Seemingly twice as many as counted were moving along the road.

Again another sign of what might be described as "the escalation of defense" is the common sight, out in the countryside, of modern ingredients for carrying on a war. In one short stretch of the road, there were seven tractor-drawn rocket launchers and more than 30 gasoline tank trucks and four heavy artillery pieces... and every one was new to the extent that each appeared almost unused.

It is at least a little strange, so many hundreds of miles behind the enemy lines, to hear the voices of your adversary compliment you on the brute force and competence of the American bombers, and the brute force and the competence is starkly visible. For example, there is the Long Bridge, which once spanned the mile width of the Red River and its approaches, just outside Hanoi. It is now a silent and grotesque monument to the precision of the United States Air Force. The middle of the bridge is a mangled silhouette... steel and wood and concrete sagging dependently into the river. The destruction was surgically accomplished.

But once more you see the tenacity and invention of these people. Only a short distance south of the Long Bridge is a new span across the vital river, hastily composed of pontoons, and on down the river are other new bridges, largely made of bamboo; piles of bamboo are stacked on both sides of the river in preparation for the possibility that the bombers come and quick repairs are needed.

Something which appears to be a purely Vietnamese concoction is the "one-person bomb shelter." This consists of a concrete pipe, planted in the ground, about three feet in diameter. It comes with a lid of concrete or woven bamboo, which you slap on after you jump into it.

These are remarkably effective shelters, and there are now tens of thousands of them in Hanoi. You are informed by independent witnesses in the diplomatic corps that persons have survived the impact of air-to-ground missiles landing only four feet from these one-person shelter holes. You cannot verify this, but you can believe it.

Much has been reported and rumored of the bombing of Hanoi, and the leaders here tell you that the city was bombed 50 times in 1967.

But Hanoi is not really a blitzed city in the traumatic style of Rotterdam, or even London, in World War II. Rather, it has been sort of nicked at. Or perhaps they were nuisance raids or those punishing mistakes common to the making of war.

This may be a cruel way to express an impression of the bombing of Hanoi, because quite a few people were killed and injured when bombs fell last August on Hue Street, not far from the center of the city. This writer was able to confirm that the movie house on Hue Street was crowded when the bombs fell and several died.

One block away, on Mai Hac De Street, a string of homes is missing since bombs fell there. There is really no sense in this kind of bombing, and you can only believe it was either a case of nuisance or error by the air-men.

Such are the evidences of bombing in Hanoi. There is not even a hint that the American strategy has been to obliterate Hanoi. Surely, with the competence of the U.S. Air Force, all of this city could be reduced to broken bricks and scattered glass on any afternoon.

Of course, much of the ability of the North Viets to survive finds some explanation in the generous flow of goods from the fraternal Communist countries. Insofar as the heavy goods of war are concerned, North Vietnam is a way station. Some arms move across the old and worn hills of China to the north, on the funny little narrow gauge rail line that meanders down into the country, or on the somewhat primitive roads which challenge even the new and muscular trucks from the Soviet Union and the other sponsoring countries.

Boy Scout Notes

Cub Scout Pack 67 held their March pack meeting at Horace Mann School on March 26, with the month's theme being "Rivers of the World."

All the Cub Scouts participated in the posting of the colors with a grand march, then led the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag.

Jimmy Tyroler lit the Spirit of Cub Scouting candle and read an appropriate poem.

After new families were introduced, along with new boys that were to be transferred into the pack attendance was taken with Den 1 winning the attendance trophy.

Cub Scouts and parents with March birthdays were recognized and Richard Camirand led the group in singing "Happy Birthday."

Den 2 presented the skit "Fresh Fish," with Mike Branson, Randy Randol, Tim Swezy, Richard Camirand, Ricky O'Neal and Jeff Cobb participating.

Den 1 presented a skit, with all cubs dressed in pirate costumes they had made during the month. They abandoned their pirate ship and forced the cubs from other dens to explain several basic ideals of Cub Scouting. Then four fathers were brought forward and were forced to follow treasure maps to different points about the room, following the commands along the way until they found a box of treasure, consisting of Scout uniforms, Scout books, etc. Pirates were Larry Clawson, Steven Harvey, Tim Herrick, Jimmy Tyroler, Danny Fisher, Ricky Schaberg and Joe Lutjen.

Bobcat pins were presented to Mike Branson and Richard Camirand. Jimmy Tyroler was awarded the Wolf Badge and pinned the miniature wolf pin on his mother. A gold arrow point was presented to Steven Harvey for his Wolf badge.

Floyd Kerns, Webelos leader presented artist badges to the following Webelos: Ricky Johns, Mark Diehl, Keith Townsend and Dennis Kerns. The Webelos award was presented to Dennis Kerns and he was transferred to Boy Scout Troop 61. He then presented his mother the miniature Webelos pin. Joseph Lutjen was transferred into the Webelos den.

Cubmaster Vernon Harvey announced the plans for the Scout-O-Rama and the Cub Scout carnival to be held later in April, and after a closing thought the colors were retired.

Melting water from the Columbia icefield in Canada's Banff and Jasper National Parks reaches the Pacific, Arctic and Atlantic oceans.

Survived Crash

Pop singer Mark Wynter points to where he was seated when the BOAC Boeing 707 crash landed at Heathrow Airport in London. Wynter used the emergency chute to escape before the wreckage exploded into flames. Wynter received hand and foot injuries in the crash, which claimed the lives of five of 126 passengers aboard. He was on his way to Australia to be married. (UPI)

Smith-Cotton Students In Music Competition

Approximately 85 Smith-Cotton High School students participated in the District Music Contest April 6, at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg. With 53 entries, the S-C music department secured 22 1's, 24 2's, and seven 3's.

Vocal soloists receiving 1 ratings were Kathy Hinken and Pat Worley, freshmen; Steve Gray, sophomore; Eddie Woolery, junior; and Barbara Markmann, Meladee Herndon, Larry Nuzum, Pat Hayes, Julie Seelen, and Nancy Gray, seniors.

Instrumental soloists with top ratings were Barbara Schrader and Wayne Durrill, freshmen; Lance Temple and Judy Findland, sophomores; David Duffield, junior; and Victor Stuart, Rick Kell, and Larry Nuzum, seniors.

Ensemble groups receiving 1's included a girls' sextet "A," a girls' sextet "B," a boys' double quartet, and a saxophone quartet. Participating in the "A" girls' group were Meladee Herndon, Pat Stoecker, Ellen Cromley, Julie Seelen, Nancy Gray, and Pam Mark, seniors. In the "B" girls' group were Diana Trout, Barbara Markmann, Pat Hayes, Jan Turner, Lynne Lockett, and Dana Routsong, seniors. The boys' double quartet included Steve Gray and Danny Gwinn, sophomores; Eddie Woolery, and Kevin West, juniors; Larry Nuzum, Danny Eckles, Sterling Howard, and Richard Mavis, seniors. Playing in the saxophone quartet were Frank Grainger, sophomore; Jeff Summers and John Carrier, juniors; and Jim Wright, senior.

Accompanying these students to Warrensburg were Bob Cummings, Mrs. Mary Lou Waldrep, and Mrs. Geraldine Schrader, Smith-Cotton music instructors.

The students who received 1 ratings will qualify for the state contest in Columbia on April 27.

'White Mule' Still Kicks

While screening microfilm copies of the Sedalia Democrat we try to be as selective as possible with emphasis on names of persons "in the news" 40 or 25 years ago. These items of ancient history, as they are called, are for pleasant recollections.

Items we pass up refer to a thirteen year period way back yonder when many front page stories recorded a phase of national and local life that is seldom heard about today. They were about incidents during the days of prohibition from January 16, 1920 when the amendment was adopted until Dec. 5, 1933 when it was repealed.

Raids on moonshiners were frequent and productive for the "revenooers."

Although we don't read much about such goings on today, nevertheless the feuds between manufacturers of "white mule" and the law, continue unabated.

According to the Licensed Beverage Industries, Inc., government statistics show that approximately 55.7 million gallons of illegal liquor were produced in 1966. This represented an estimated loss in public revenue of $744 million.

Like echoes of the hauls in Pettis County and Central Missouri during prohibition days, a total of 17,774 illicit stills were seized by federal, state and local lawmen in 1966. Moreover production is up especially in the "moonshine belt" of 12 Southeastern states.

Statistics indicate the trend today is toward larger, better concealed illicit stills and big-business type systems of production, wholesaling and retailing.

Modernity, it seems, is in everything except quality and purity.

One still was found in an abandoned coal mine in Alabama. Another was discovered at the newly built Georgia Raceway in Peach County. A trapdoor in a dummy ticket booth opened into a 125-foot tunnel that led to the bubbling still.

The State Alcoholic Beverage Commission of Tennessee has purchased a twin-engine plane to help ferret out above-ground operations. Some moonshiners have countered by renting helicopters to check on their camouflage.

The feud goes on because, as long as people continue to buy the rotgut, there will always be someone around willing to take their money.

Sounds reminiscent of the old days in and around Pettis county when buyers of rotgut were convinced the white mule was better than distillery products.

"You've Robbed Our Banks, Raped Our Women, Doped Our Children and Murdered Our Citizens, but Don't Go Too Far!"

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Nation's Capital Is City Divided

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Washington, long a city of contrasts, is more divided than ever now. On one side are the stately Doric columns of government buildings, the white bowers of cherry trees along the tidal basin, the green grass of the Mall, greener than ever in the April sun. On the other side are gaunt, grimy chimneys standing like skeletons from burned-out buildings, the rubble, the broken glass, the littered streets of downtown Washington.

On one side are the tapestries of Larz Anderson, the white marble architecture of Stanford White on Dupont Circle, the austere headquarters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the cozy restaurants of Georgetown. In contrast are the row houses, the shabby liquor stores, the coffee shops of the inner city.

Troops, which once stepped jauntily past the White House in smart salute, eyes left, to the tune of martial music on inaugural day, now sleep in landroams or the back of trucks, keeping an uneasy eye on the scene of desolation.

Not since the British march on Washington in 1812 has there been such damage. Gen. Jubal Early converted his Confederate troops on Washington in 1864, and nearly took it. The Ku Klux Klan marched up Pennsylvania Avenue, white-robed, four abreast, in 1922 without disorder. The Bonus Army of World War I veterans, ragged and jobless, were chased down Pennsylvania Avenue in 1932 while Gen. Douglas MacArthur, beribboned, in spotless uniform, ordered tanks and cavalry in pursuit.

I covered the evacuation of that army of despair, watched as General MacArthur obeyed the directions of photographers: "Point to the troops, General," "now salute, General," "now stand by your horse, General."

Another who watched was Maj. Dwight D. Eisenhower, standing beside MacArthur's car in front of the Willard Hotel.

None of these saw such holocaust as seen on the streets of Washington today.

—Why the Violence?—

Why? Why should three percent of the Negro population be so consumed with hate as to make homeless hundreds of their own race and endanger relations between both races? There is no excuse for violence. But it happened. Why should it be so?

There are those who tell you Lyndon Johnson is to blame, that he went too far in helping Negroes. It is true that he appointed the first Negro to the Cabinet, the first Negro to the Supreme Court, a Negro as Mayor of Washington — the first Mayor in 90 years. It is true that Johnson, the first Southern President in a hundred years, has done more for the Negro than any President since Abraham Lincoln. But there are others who tell you that these things were long overdue.

There are those who point the finger of blame at Stokely Carmichael and black power advocates of violence. Unquestionably, they deserve some of the blame. Their harangues of hate ignored the fact that the churches have gone out of their way to help Dr. Martin Luther King plan his poor people's march, that King himself preached the main sermon in the National Cathedral 10 days ago, that government offices overflow with Negro employees, some of them far from efficient, and that in no city in the world are Negroes given such opportunity. This, it is true, is fairly recent.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A Sedalian, Arthur G. Salisbury, with the U.S. Army Air Forces on the Tunisian front, has been promoted to full colonel during activities against the German forces under General Rommel. Salisbury, 25, is the youngest colonel in the U.S. Army. He was graduated from Smith-Cotton High school in 1933 and later attended the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville.

FORTY YEARS AGO

R. C. Turner, a former well known Sedalian, now of Boonville, has been elected head of the Chamber of Commerce of that city. He is a son of John T. Turner, of Sedalia, and is manager of the Shryack-Givens Grocery Co., of Boonville.

NINETY YEARS AGO

The mumps are raging all over the city. The salutation is no longer "how's your vaccinate?" it's "how's your mumps?" Constable Connors has commenced the collection of the dog tax. Mr. Ed Ilgenfritz had the honor of being the first man to pay his tax of one dollar on his purp.

Others point to the legislative road block to open housing in the latest civil rights bill. After six weeks of agonizing delay, the bill finally passed the Senate, only to be blocked in the House of Representatives by Rep. William Colmer, D-Miss., supported by every Republican member of the Rules Committee.

—Republican-Dixiecrat Road Block—

These were: H. Allen Smith, Calif.; John Anderson, Ill.; David Martin, Neb.; James Quillen, Tenn.; and Delbert Latta, Ohio. They do deserve some of the blame. So does Rep. Jerry Ford, Mich., the Republican leader who can always switch GOP votes, but who played ball with the real estate lobby instead.

Also, in part, to blame is Rep. James Delaney, the Long Island Democrat, who did the bidding of the late Cardinal Spellman when it came to blocking aid to public schools, yet who spurned the humanitarian plea of the new Archbishop of New York, Terrence Cooke, for a better break for Negroes when it came to the current civil rights bill. Delaney also spurned the joint plea of Speaker John McCormack, Rep. Hale Boggs, La., his fellow Catholic, and Rep. Carl Albert, Okla., to switch his vote. That one vote would have unbottled the civil rights bill. Delaney said no.

Others point the finger of blame to the Senate Judiciary Committee, which for four long years listened to the National Rifle Association and blocked a gun control bill. Only last week the committee voted — nine to four — against even a mild regulation of firearms in interstate commerce. The nine were: James Eastland, Miss.; John McClellan, Ark.; Sam Ervin, N.C.; Philip Hart, Mich.; Quentin Burdick, N.D.; and Birch Bayh, Ind., Democrats; and Everett Dirksen, Ill., Roman Hruska, Neb., and Strom Thurmond, S.C., Republicans.

Only after violence gripped the nation's capital last weekend did a majority of the committee reverse itself.

For the arsenals which had been building up in white and Negro communities during recent years, these Senators do deserve some of the blame.

But the blame, as far as Washington is concerned, goes deeper. It goes to the root fact that the District of Columbia has long been governed by committees of Congress, dominated by Southern segregationists. Men like Chairman John McMillan of South Carolina, Tom Abernethy of Mississippi, John Dowdy of Texas, were delighted to see school integration break down in the nation's capital. For many years, therefore, Washington schools, until recently, have been starved by Congress.

There are the other problems of housing, slum clearance, birth control, and the old-fashioned principles of education which try to teach algebra and literature to Negro youths who should be studying mechanics. These go to the roots of the trouble in every big city in the United States.

Finally, there is the basic approach toward poverty of too little and too late. In the words of A. Philip Randolph of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, "There are two poor white families for every black family that is poor. The problem is poverty, not race."

Guest Editorial

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: 'A Voice Inside Me.' — In New York City a young boy was smothered in a cave-in because neighbors would not let his friend make an emergency call to the police. In Toronto six children were killed in a fire because motorists would not heed the anguished plea of a father, his own hair afire, to stop and help him.

Man's inhumanity to man is horrifying to contemplate. Such actions violate all of men's moral and spiritual instincts, to say nothing of their social obligations. These instances — and they are duplicated daily in a thousand different places and in a thousand different ways — are crying evidence of how desperately men and society need to gain a stronger and higher sense of universal brotherhood.

Yet, we need not be unduly disheartened over the possibility that this will be done. A recent survey, for example, found three-fourths of the teen-agers questioned replying that their strongest unfulfilled wish was to be able to help other people more. As one 15-year-old put it: A voice inside me, my conscience, makes me want to do this.

When we let it, this "still small voice" will speak to every one of us. And if we heed it, we shall quickly find countless ways in which to lend a much-needed helping hand.

Soviet, China and France Put Gold Squeeze on U.S.

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

HONG KONG (NEA)

Reports collected through the Far East, Europe, Africa and Latin America and assembled and evaluated by Asian and foreign bankers in this region indicate:

The Soviet Union now has gold stocks valued at $10 billion. The Communist government of China has gold stocks valued at slightly over $1 billion.

Add the billions in gold held by the French government and private French hoarders and speculators.

These groups hold a great potential power over the world's gold markets in the years just ahead.

Communist China operates an open gold market in Portuguese-ruled Macao. Gold is brought to Macao from countries throughout the world, melted into convenient sizes for concealment and shipped out through Hong Kong and other ports to world speculators.

The Communist Chinese take a sizable cut out of the profits of this market.

With these facts in mind, some Japanese, Hong Kong and Southeast Asian bankers see a grave danger in raising the official value of gold much above $35 an ounce.

Doubling the official price to $70 an ounce as Paris financial men have suggested would give the French, the Russians and Red Chinese a windfall of something over $16 billion dollars, plus whatever hidden gold hoards are in the hands of Frenchmen.

This heavy increased buying power would give the Russian and French the strength to manipulate world markets. This could put added pressures on the United States, Japan, Britain and several other major Western commercial nations and have unsettling effects generally.

There's a firm belief in some Far East banking circles that if the United States parries rapidly with measures to put its economic house in order, and if the system of currency drawing rights approved by nine of the big 10 financial powers (France dissenting) at Stockholm effectively relieves pressure on official gold stocks, then the free gold price may not continue long at an overly high level. These bankers believe that there just isn't that much commercial need for gold.

Under the special drawing rights system a country would be able to draw up to a specified limit from an international account. The result would be in a very real sense be equivalent to the creation of an international currency which countries short of foreign exchange could use instead of gold to settle their accounts.

Bankers this reporter has talked to say that a free gold price at or below $40 an ounce would not be a major threat over the long run to an official $35-an-ounce rate.

The gold run is caused in part, these bankers say, by the little faith that many Europeans, including the French, have in their own currencies. It is the lack of faith in their own money, rather than a lack of faith in the dollar, which has prompted a good deal of the gold buying.

Some Far East financial men would like to get away from gold entirely. Some feel that there's so much tradition behind gold that this will be impossible. Some feel that the official price of gold must be raised a little; some feel that this would be a mistake. But there's strong agreement among many in this part of the world that there must be at least some supplement to gold.

Lent is for Convicts and Christians.

By DAVID POLING

The story of our society may be told on not what Christians did in church but what they accomplished in prison. For the penitentiary, reform school and county jail are in gasping need for all that Christians can provide.

Here are the lonely, the addicted to drugs and alcohol and sexual perversions. In prison you find those who have fallen a long way. The trail is strewn with smashed jobs, broken marriages, lying and thieving, hating and hurting. And they are just the men and women that were the special intense concern of God's son.

If Lent reminds us of anything, it is that Jesus was also in prison. Behind bars. Unfairly treated. He shared the fate of every convict that ever has been sentenced. His followers, in honoring Him, should be as frequent in their visits to the cell block as they are to the cathedral. Jesus said, "I was in prison and you came to me."

Think of it. There are 250,000 people in prison, needing guidance, jobs, counseling and friendship. In New Jersey alone, half of the men in prison are under 21. Who will help them return?

Lent is a time to be haunted by the demands of the gospel as much as we are helped by its power.

"Bid Boldly, Play Safe" is the title of a book by Rixi Marcus just published in this country. Rixi is one of the great women players of all time, and her style is to bid whenever she can do so and then play the cards well enough to prevent catastrophe.

Today's hand shows how to play at six no-trump and come out with an overtrick for a top score in duplicate. Needless to say, you don't risk your small slam in the process.

South's two no-trump rebid showed a minimum balanced opening, and North settled for the small slam. West made the safe lead of a low spade, and declarer ran off three spades and discarded a small diamond. Then he played dummy's ace and queen of hearts and noted that West discarded the ten of spades.

Thus West had started with one heart, four spades and eight minor suit cards while East had started with only five minor suit cards. Hence the odds were in favor of finding West with the queen of diamonds. South returned to his own hand with the king of diamonds and finessed the jack. When East showed out, a double squeeze developed automatically because only East could stop hearts and only West could stop diamonds.

All South had to do was to lead a diamond to the ace and cash dummy's last spade. East had to go down to two clubs to hold two hearts, whereupon South threw his small heart and led a heart to his king. This brought West down to two clubs also and all the clubs were good.

It should be noticed that West could have saved the overtrick by covering the jack of diamonds with the queen. This would have spoiled the timing for the squeeze. On the other hand, South could have developed it against any defense if he had not cashed three spade tricks.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Who is the only U.S. president who simultaneously defeated two other presidents in one election?

A—Woodrow Wilson, who defeated William Howard Taft and Theodore Roosevelt in 1912.

The World Today

Trouble Blamed On First Bomb

By WILLARD H. MOBLEY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The boom of the first American bomb on North Vietnam in August 1964 signaled the mushrooming troubles at home and abroad that finally drove Lyndon B. Johnson out of the political arena.

One way or another the divisions within the nation, which the President gave as the reason for his decision not to run again, represent swelling reverberations from that blast.

The list is nearly endless—accusations of fraud following the administration's stated reasons for the first bombing, complaints of a credibility gap in administration reports of war progress and prospects, immorality charges over U.S. participation in the war, trouble in the streets and protests that war money should be used instead to solve problems at home.

The first bombs fell on Communist shore installations in retaliation for a reported attack by North Vietnamese torpedo boats on American destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The national split showed up—just a small crack initially—in the first event that followed. That was Senate adoption of the Tonkin Resolution to back the President in "all necessary measures" to resist attack and deter aggression.

Only Sens. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, opposed that measure. They argued the United States had no right to make war in Vietnam and had no national interest to serve there.

That and similar points of view have been gaining backers ever since.

But the Johnson administration has cited the Tonkin Resolution as its commission for whatever measures it felt necessary to meet the stated goal of deterrence for the Communists.

And the ballooning of the war effort on that basis has been matched, almost step by step, by the rising din of protest.

Leadership in that movement has been taken over by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He shepherded the resolution through to adoption in 1964 but now contends it was never intended for the uses to which it was put.

The issue moved into the even broader forum of national politics when first Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and then Sen. Robert F. Kennedy opened presidential drives with the war their overriding platform issue.

Johnson coupled his political pull-out with a new bombing pause offer as a bid for talks, and right up to the time when the Communists made some movement toward acceptance last week, the administration was insisting there had been no sign of willingness on the other side.

Despite such contentions, the ranks of opposition continued to swell in almost precise proportion to the degree of American involvement in the war.

The time when the widening break became a chasm can almost be pinpointed as last August when U.S. forces in Vietnam went past half a million.

THE WELL CHILD ®

Defective Hearing Hard to Detect in Child

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Many a child who does poorly in school is thought to be mentally retarded or of low intelligence when the cause of the trouble is not in the brain but is poor vision or hearing. Testing for these defects, however, should never be deferred until the child has started school. Last week I briefly discussed a common visual defect. Defective hearing is even harder to detect than poor vision but new techniques are making it possible to test the hearing in early infancy. This is done by observing the brain waves in an electroencephalogram as sounds are delivered to each of the child's ears separately through ear phones.

A mother should suspect that her child does not hear normally if he fails to say recognizable words by the age of 18 months; if he is not startled by a sudden loud noise; if he cannot be soothed by hearing his mother's voice without seeing her; or if he prefers to play quietly by himself.

As soon as there is the slightest suspicion of defective hearing your child should be examined by a physician and if his hearing is found to be subnormal he should be placed under expert care. The earlier corrective measures are started the better the results will be.

Q—My daughter, 3, loves to tear up newspapers and put the scraps in her mouth. Would the print on the papers harm her? Could she choke on the paper?

A—An infant will put anything in her mouth that she can reach. This is her way of learning. Most children, finding newspaper not very appetizing, quickly turn their attention to other fare. Newspaper is made from wood pulp and the ink from lamp black with a solvent that has evaporated before your daughter gets around to chewing it. So the paper is not apt to make her sick.

She would be no more likely to choke on the paper than on anything else she puts in her mouth.

BERRY'S WORLD

"When will I be old enough to see 'The Graduate'?"

Antipoverty Agency Under Study

By DICK BARNES AND GAYLORD SHAW Associated Press Writers
DETROIT (AP) — City, state and federal investigators are busily searching the record of Detroit's antipoverty agency today, trying to find out why $50 million in federal funds has helped only a fraction of the city's poor.

By the antipoverty agency's own admission, only 53,283 persons were participating in its programs at the end of last year. The figures, contained in an unpublished quarterly report, represent barely 15 percent of the 349,718 poor people in the agency's target areas.

Last month, in its report on the riot that killed 42 persons here last summer, the President's Commission on Civil Disorders raised questions about the city agency's performance.

The commission said that $19.6 million in federal funds spent during the first nine months of 1967 provided job opportunities for less than half the city's unemployed. It also said that community action programs costing $12.6 million reached only 30 per cent of the poor.

Since the commission's report, investigators for a Michigan legislative committee, the General Accounting Office of Congress, and the city auditor's office have been examining operations of the antipoverty agency—Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh's Committee for Human Resources Development.

Among the things they are looking at:

—The agency headquarters is in a 40-year-old building it leased from one of Cavanagh's former business associates. In two years the annual rent has nearly equalled the building's $180,000 purchase price.

—Antipoverty officials bought $80,000 worth of dental equipment in mid-1966. Through December 1967, exactly four patients had been treated.

—Job programs have piled atop one another, creating, in the words of an antipoverty official, "some accidental overlaps."

—The city's antipoverty program has been late or irregular in paying its bills.

—On-the-job training funds sometimes have gone to employers for training workers who already had dropped out of the program.

—$150,000 has been spent developing performance measurement techniques with more to follow. Yet officials couldn't provide some routine statistics required for their last quarterly report to the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Only New York and Chicago have received more antipoverty funds than Detroit, the nation's fifth largest city. Antipoverty money allocated to Detroit is channeled through a single agency—the Mayor's Committee for Human Resources Development.

omment. In all other major cities, except Chicago, the funds go to private, non-profit community action programs.

Efforts to discuss the antipoverty program with Mayor Cavanagh failed. He canceled two appointments with reporters, and did not return a telephone call.

But Richard Simmons Jr., third director of the Detroit operation in its three years, defended the program. "I don't just think we are, I know we're getting to the people," he said in an interview.

Other agencies aren't so sure:

—The Detroit city auditor, after spending 15 months examining 1966 antipoverty books, will issue a report this month. A city official who refused to permit use of his name said the report will show that book-keeping hasn't improved since the auditor's last report, which criticized 1965 operations.

—The General Accounting Office is beginning another audit of the Detroit program even before reporting on a 10-month check made last year.

—A Michigan House of Representatives committee is expected to release soon a report criticizing everything from travel expenses to the property leases negotiated by the program.

Heading the state investigation is Rep. James Del Rio, a Detroit Democrat but a political foe of Cavanagh, who also is a Democrat. Del Rio said he is particularly interested in the city's leasing of its antipoverty headquarters.

An Associated Press check of documents in Detroit, the state capital at Lansing, Washington, D.C., and Tucson, Ariz., produced this background on the lease:

The building at 903 W. Grand Blvd., about four miles from downtown Detroit, is held in the name of Detroit Convalescent Home Inc., a firm owned by James P. Hannan, a former state senator.

Detroit Convalescent Home was incorporated May 6, 1958, with Hannan as president and Cavanagh as secretary, registered agent and one of three directors.

Cavanagh was replaced as resident agent after he took office as mayor in 1962, according to a document dated May 1, 1962, and filed with the state Dec. 7 of that year. The firm's 1962 annual report showed he also had been replaced as secretary and a director.

The present resident agent and secretary is Oliver C. Nelson of Detroit, a former law partner of Cavanagh.

According to documents turned over to federal auditors, Hannan and Dr. Howard Bergo signed an agreement with Socony Mobil Oil Co. in February 1965 to buy the Grand Boulevard building—then Mobil's regional headquarters—for $180,000.

On Dec. 21, 1965, the city agreed to lease the building from Hannan and Bergo for $5,875 a month—or $70,500 a year. The city also leased equipment in the building for $333 a month, a figure raised six months later to $500. The building lease was signed Feb. 1, 1966, and has been renewed periodically.

Hannan and Bergo became the building's owners of record on March 23, 1966, according to a deed filed April 7, 1966. The antipoverty agency moved in during April.

Bergo said in an interview he did not know the details of events that led to the lease. A Mobile spokesman said the firm could not discuss the matter.

Bergo deeded his portion of the building ownership to Hannan on Aug. 20, 1966. Hannan then deeded the property to Detroit Convalescent Home on Feb. 1, 1967.

Hannan, meanwhile, moved to Arizona where in March 1967 he filed for reorganization of his financial affairs under the federal Bankruptcy Act. Antipoverty headquarters rent checks currently go to the receiver.

In discussing the lease, Simmons said OEO regulations prohibit antipoverty agencies from purchasing buildings. But, he added, "You bet we'd have been better off with any building we've got if we could have bought it."

The program leases 26 buildings in Detroit at a cost of $254,739 annually. The headquarters lease is the largest.

Another type of lease used in the Detroit program posed this question: Why did officials contract for full-sized automobiles at $100 a month each at the same time other city agencies were buying compact cars for less than $1,500 apiece?

Simmons said regulations did not permit the agency to buy cars.

Questions also arise in other areas.

Antipoverty officials operate an alphabet soup mixture of employment programs called AYES, NYC, OJT, and STEPS that has led to duplication of efforts in recruiting and job placement.

Donald Healus, director of manpower, said in an interview: "By pieces of legislation, even different offices in the Labor Department, these things grew topsy turvy... There were, as you said, some accidental overlaps."

Kidnaping Charges

FRANKLINTON, N.C. (AP) — Two Negroes were held on charges of kidnaping by detaining and seizure in the detention of a Franklin County school bus with 31 students aboard.

Police said Mrs. Ester Perry, 35, and Eddie Junius Parker, 19, both of Franklinton, boarded the bus Tuesday morning and told the nine Negro pupils on board to get out because the pupils were not showing the proper respect for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. by going to school.

JAMES C. McGrath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Brueckner, 1915 West 10th, has been selected to earn a college education and a Regular Navy commission through the Navy Enlisted Scientific Education Program. He will report in June to Bainbridge, Md., where he will take a preparatory course prior to reporting to a participating university. He is a 1963 graduate of Smith-Cotton.

Smith-Cotton Notes

Candidates for the 1968-69 presidents of the Smith-Cotton Junior and Senior High Student Councils will address their respective student bodies April 11, in the school auditorium. Juniors running for Senior Council president are Dennis Bruns, Annetta Grainger, Reed McGregor, and Scott Shumaker. Eighth Graders running for Junior Council president are Sally Lockett, Keith Hawkins, Anita Barriek, Raina Williams, John Mahoney and Giana Snyder.

Primary elections will be held April 18, at which time two senior high candidates and two junior high candidates will remain in the running. These finalists will then be voted on April 25, and the highest candidate for both councils will be elected president, while the runner-up will be vice-president.

Senior High Council candidates will speak to all freshmen, sophomores, and juniors, Thursday morning at 8:45 a.m., followed by the Junior High assembly where all members of the eighth grade will hear the speeches of their candidates.

The Spring festival in honor of Ceres, goddess of agriculture, will create the atmosphere of the annual Roman banquet of S-C's Latina Sodalitas April 26, at 7 p.m. in the Smith-Cotton cafeteria.

"Some people might think it strange to honor the goddess of agriculture in the Spring instead of the Fall," commented Mr. John C. Allen, sponsor of the Latin Club, "but it is perfectly acceptable because Ceres was worshipped similarly in both seasons."

Entertainment for the evening will be provided by several members of Latina Sodalitas who will present the comedy, "Phormio," one of the greatest plays of Terence. Featured will be Andy Alexander, senior, playing the lead role of Phormio.

Preceding the banquet and program will be the traditional Festival Procession, including candlelighters, flower girls, the standard bearer, and all members of the local chapter.

Customary gold honor keys will again be presented to outstanding students in each of the Latin I and II classes.

Serving the banquet will be several "servae," or girls who plan to take Latin I next year.

Artisans of Hue, the beleaguered city in South Vietnam, take pride in the conical hats they make. "Hold one against the sun and you can read a poem written on paper sandwiched between the hat's two layers of bamboo," a craftsman said.

Shapiro Featured

Donn Stewart Shapiro and his wife, Sandra McLaughlin Shapiro, daughter of Philip McLaughlin, 500 South Grand, returned to their home in Chicago after a week-end visit to Sedalia recently.

Mr. Shapiro is the son of Joseph Randall Shapiro, president of Chicago's Museum of Contemporary Art, who was featured in the art section in the March 29 edition of Time magazine, the national news weekly.

The article described Joseph Shapiro as a leading collector of surrealist and brutalist works.
